Long-Awaited Repairs in First Street Now Underway—Street Dept. Lays Tar-Bound Macadam

STREET DEPARTMENT MEN PUTTING FIRST STREET INTO SHAPE

Automobilists of Lowell and surrounding towns as well as those from other cities who have occasion to make frequent use of First street as part of the Lowell-Lawrence highway are hailing with delight the news that work is actually under way to put First street into passable condition. A new tar-bound macadam roadway is being laid by employees of the street department and 1450 feet of it has already been completed.

The new road will extend from Simpson street to a point 150 feet beyond Christian street and when completed will be 4172 feet long with an average width of 18 feet. The total yardage will be 8344 square yards. At first it was contemplated extending the new macadam road to the Dracut line, but inasmuch as the state has taken over the road from a point near Christian street to Dracut as part of the proposed new river highway, the city authorities feel it is up to the state to macadamize their part of the road. Negotiations are now underway with the state authorities to have them do their part of the work.

If they agree, then there will be a first class highway between this city and Lawrence. The block paving between Bridge street and Simpson street will be renewed by the city at a later date.

A gang of 20 men is employed on the job at the present time with Cornelius O'Hearn as foreman. The work is under the general supervision of City Engineer Kierney in the absence of Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy. The job was started at the Christian street end and is proceeding toward First street. Work has been under way since April 25.

OPENS CAMPAIGN HERE AGAINST SMOKERS

Chief Edward P. Saunders of the fire department today opened a campaign here against careless smokers in co-operation with the national board of fire underwriters. The campaign will continue throughout the week and the theatres will be asked to co-operate.

"We are not criticizing the habit of smoking," said Chief Saunders today, "but we do censure the careless persons who thoughtlessly cast lighted matches, cigar and cigarette stubs into waste baskets, rubbish piles and other places where combustible material is present."

"We have had a number of serious fires from this hazard in Lowell and statistics show that careless smokers are responsible for a greater portion of our fire losses than any other agency except improperly used electricity and electrical appliances."

"The proper time to light a fire is before it occurs and I am asking employers of this city to enforce the 'no smoking' rules and to be more careful themselves. Fire is a community proposition and not a personal one, and if you are outdoors, when in doors, use a glass, metal or china ash receiver."

"The way to reduce the number of fires due to the use of matches and smoking materials is to make sure that neither lighted matches nor tobacco embers are ever disposed of in unsafe places. Break your match sticks in halves after using them and stamp upon your cigar and cigarette stubs if you are outdoors. When in doors, use a glass, metal or china ash receiver."

"Unfortunately," continued the chief, "there is considerable loss of life by burning because of reckless employees in factories and other places of business who snatch a smoke when the foreman is not looking. If discovery is threatened, the smoker is likely to get rid of his cigarette, cigar or pipe as rapidly as possible with little thought as to where it will land."

"There have been numerous cases where fires have started in this way. In one New York shirt waist factory an operative threw a lighted cigar stub into cotton scraps on the floor and as a result of his thoughtlessness, 145 girls lost their lives in the fire and panic that resulted."

FIRE IN AUTOMOBILE
An automobile owned by Fred Phillips, of 217 Wilder street, caught fire near his home shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. A telephone alarm was sent in and the firemen put out the blaze before any serious damage was caused. At 7.25 o'clock last night a still alarm was sent in for a slight blaze on the Allen street bridge.

WENT IN AIRPLANE
After that it was hours before communication between Pueblo and the rest of the country was restored, over one Western Union wire. The first outside newspapermen to reach the flooded city were two Denver correspondents. One of them was an Associated Press staff man and the other a staff correspondent of the Denver Times. They went together early Saturday morning in an airplane from this city.

ADD NEW MEMBERS TO NATIONAL FAMILY

About 150 new members were added to Uncle Sam's family at a session of the superior court today, for passing upon applications for final citizenship papers. Judge Charles U. Bell was on the bench and Assistant Clerk Ralph H. Smith administered the oath in which all allegiance to foreign princes, potentates and powers was renounced. The largest percentage of the new citizens came from among the subjects of King George of England.

More than the usual formality attached to initiating applicants into citizenship was given by having the men, as soon as they had been examined, take seats within the bar enclosure, and after half a dozen had been passed they were asked to stand and face the black-robed judge, who also arose, while the oath was being administered.

FIREMEN GO TO SALEM
The baseball team representing the second shift of the fire department left for Salem this morning to line up against the fire department nine of that city. The trip was made by auto truck, about 40 men being in the party that left here.

Reports of Conditions in Flood-Stricken Districts Obtained Under Difficulties

Conditions as Hazardous as Those Which Suffering People Themselves Underwent

Witnessed Much of the Disaster From Tops of Buildings—Wigwagged Reports

DENVER, Colo., June 6.—

Information in regard to conditions in flood stricken and isolated Pueblo was obtained and forwarded to the outside world under conditions that were as trying and in some instances as hazardous as those which the suffering people of that city themselves underwent.

The first news of the disaster came to Denver over the Associated Press leased wire and a Western Union Telegraph Co., almost simultaneously. A few minutes after the Associated Press wire lost Pueblo, the last Western Union man to brave the rush of the waters wired to the Denver office:

"I am going to beat it; the water is around my feet." That was Friday night.

Another Train Stalled Near—Many Dashed to Death Between Trains

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 6.—Frank Ducey, sheriff of Mesa county, whose home is at Grand Junction, was one of the survivors of 200 passengers on Denver and Rio Grande train No. 3 which arrived in Pueblo on Friday night at 8 p. m.

Just as the train pulled up to the bridge over the Arkansas river, leading into the Union station, it was stopped, he said.

THINGS ARE LOOKING
BRIGHTER HERE

Lowell is gradually breaking away from the industrial depression which overtook her last fall, according to the monthly employment report of the United States employment service of the department of labor for the month of May, a copy of which was received today by the chamber of commerce.

There was an increase of 3.5 per cent. in employment in Lowell in the month of May as compared with April, according to the figures. A total of 456 more people were working here in May than in the preceding month. These figures are based on reports from firms which employ more than 500 persons.

Lowell showed a greater increase than Lawrence, where there was only a 2.5 per cent. increase noted. However, New Bedford did a little better than Lowell, her percentage of increase being 3.6 per cent. Boston and Brockton both suffered decreases during the month, while Fall River, Springfield and Worcester were among the other Massachusetts cities that showed an increase.

JURY VISITS MURDER SCENE

Judge and Jurors Go To South Braintree to View Place of Double Killing

Sacco and Vanzetti, Accused of Crime, Waive Right to Be Present

DEDHAM, June 6.—The scene of the killing at South Braintree a year ago of Frederick A. Parmenter, paymaster of a shoe factory, and Alessandro Berardelli, his guard, was visited today by the judge and the jury before whom Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, are to be tried for the double murder and payroll robbery.

The prisoners waived their right to be present. The trip by motor was over the route alleged to have been followed by the defendants.

Before the start Assistant District Attorney Harold P. Williams described to the jurors the ground they would cover. He said the trip would take them not only to the scene of the murder, but also over the route of the alleged flight of the bandits, through Randolph, Milton and Brockton to West Bridgewater.

Attention was directed to a chart of the scene on Pearl street, South Braintree, where the murders occurred on the afternoon of April 15, 1920.

HARDING WANTS U. S. HELPFUL TO HUMANITY

VALLEY FORGE, Penn., June 6.—A sermon of faith in established American institutions and of hope for a day of peace and good will throughout the world, was preached by President Harding yesterday from a Woodland pulpit overlooking General Washington's historic camping ground in Valley Forge.

At Memorial Chapel

The president's address was delivered from the cloister of the Washington Memorial chapel to a crowd of several thousand persons assembled under the auspices of the Valley Forge Historical society.

Just before the address he had attended service within the chapel itself, to which he and Mrs. Harding motored from the country home, here, or Senator Knox, with whom they are spending the week-end.

At the Memorial chapel, whose cornerstone was laid in 1903 by President Roosevelt, special patriotic services were held yesterday in honor of the coming of President Harding. Former service men, hearing the presidential flag and the national colors, preceded the President and Mrs. Harding up the aisle to their reserved pew. Patriotic airs were sung after the completion of the regular Protestant Episcopal service.

At the outdoor ceremonies the president was made a member of the historical society, of which Dr. W. Herbert Burk, rector of the chapel, is president. Mr. Harding was praised in a short address by Dr. Burk as "a leader who blends religion with patriotism," and was presented with membership insignia bearing the inscription, "A token of appreciation and a pledge of loyalty."

President's Address

The conclusion of the president's address was as follows:

"This is the heritage of Valley Forge—equality of opportunity, sustained in justice, with maintained authority under law and order. This is what made America, it will lead us to future triumphs."

"I like to say to you—perhaps you like me to say it, because I am unanswerable to you for the policy of the republic—I believe I speak what is in your hearts, and in the heart of all America, when I say that we ought to have the courage, the appreciation, the resolution, the conscience and the judgment to maintain, unendangered the inherited foundations of the fathers, and ever mindful of their sufferings, still play our part to humanity in the generation to come. I can think of an America that can maintain every heritage and yet help humanity throughout the world to reach a little higher plane."

"But when I pledge our America to world helpfulness, at the same time I exact the pledge that America will cling to her own independence of action and to her own conscience."

"Who can say what tomorrow has for the world? We are only a century and a half from Valley Forge, and a century and a half from the adoption of our constitution, and yet I can say without boasting that ours is a commanding position in the world today."

Looks Into Future

"The world could never settle its present day troubles and complications without the helpfulness of American influence and example. Who shall say if we hold fast to the traditions of Valley Forge, what the future shall have in store?"

"I want an America of preserved conscience—I want an America of preserved righteousness—I want an America of clinging to the religious devotion which has been the anchorage of our civilization."

"Who shall say if we cling to these things what we may accomplish? We are already up in the world, but the sun of our national life has not yet fairly approached its meridian. It is only morning in our national life."

"What is a century and a half in national life? It is only a snap of the finger. Who can imagine in quaffing the cup of rational American optimism what the future may have in store? I can well believe that long before the sun of national life has passed its meridian—I can well believe that with well maintained foundations the one hundred million of today will be the myriads of the future."

"I like to think of them all as loyal Americans with faces to the front marching on and on to achievement, clinging to their traditions, and joining in a great swelling chorus, Glory Be to God in the Highest, on Earth Peace, Good-will to Men."

Film Actress By Accident—Warsaw's Fall Made Movie Star of Negri

POLA NEGRI

BERLIN, June 4.—Actresses starting in American movies want to look like Pola Negri. In a few months time will be on the way to Uncle Sam.

Pola Negri has "everything"—youth, beauty, dramatic training and film wisdom.

She received me in her apartments in the Hotel Esplanade here.

Pictures are rushing into the room: a young thing of grace and slender beauty—dark black eyelashes and dark eyes—a pallid face innocent of rouge—a flowing red silk dress.

Pola doesn't know any English yet. She speaks only Polish, Russian, German and French but she is going to learn English so she can talk to American film stars.

She told me right off she was afraid of the ocean and still more afraid of the sea, but was looking forward with immense interest to a stay in America.

"I have signed a contract with the Famous Players for three years," she said. "Under this I am to make six pictures a year, three in America and three in Europe."

"I am keen to see New York and California, where I will make my pictures. My contract with the Famous Players picture company here in Germany does not expire until next October. Some time between then and January I will sail for America."

"I am not a German, I am Polish. All my dramatic training was in my native land."

"Just before the war I reached the height of my ambition. I played the leading female role in the Royal theater in Warsaw in dramas by such men as Hauptmann and Ibsen."

"When Reinhardt's famous spectacle of 'Samsara' was produced in Warsaw, in 1914, I played the part of the Black Dancer. There were no words; it was entirely pantomime."

"The critics praised my work. I was consumed with curiosity to see myself. No actress on the speaking stage, of course, ever sees herself. It was this curiosity that led me into the movies."

Writes Own Play.

"I wrote a little play for myself—'Liebe und Leidenschaft'—Love and Passion. I put up my own money to produce it. The film had a great success both in Poland and Russia. I was urged to go into the movies for good."

NUTRATED IRON
Helps make rich red blood and revitalizes weak nerves

YOU MAY BE A BETTER
MAN AT 45, THAN
THE YOUTH OF 25

If you keep your blood rich in iron to give you plenty of "stay there" strength and endurance.

In an account of a severe mountain climbing test, a New York newspaper states that 25 per cent. of those who accomplished the feat were 44 years and over. It is therefore shown that you may be a better man at 45 than the husky strapping of 25 if you take care of yourself and keep your blood filled with iron. Prize fighters, writers and athletes have learned the value of plenty of plain, coarse foods in their training, as such a diet helps supply the body with iron. Nature put plenty of iron in the husks of grains and the peels of vegetables to enrich your blood, but modern methods of cooking throw all these things away—hence the alarming increase in recent years in anemia—iron starvation of the blood, with its debilitating weakness, nervousness and other attendant ills. If you are not strong and well, if you lack bodily and mental vigor, do not wait until you get all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, or until in your weakened condition you contract some serious disease, but take some of this NUTRATED IRON at once to help enrich your blood and revitalize your worn out, exhausted nerves. Organic Nutrated Iron is like the iron in your blood and makes the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. You can even eat it if you wish. It often increases your bodily and mental vigor in two weeks' time. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain satisfactory results. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "NUTRATED" on every package and the letters "N.I." on every tablet. At all drug stores.—Adv.

THIS MAN'S FOOD DID HIM NO GOOD

Had Good Appetite But Was Very Thin and Couldn't Gain a Pound

"I was not a sick man when I began taking Tanlac," said William McAnulty, 734 17th St., Oakland, Cal., "but for some reason or other, I had for 15 years or more, been considerably under my normal weight and felt so much concern over the fact that I made repeated efforts to find something that would build me up to my old self again."

Mr. McAnulty has lived in Oakland nearly all his life, is a member of the real estate board, office phone, Oakland 1750, and is well-known and respected throughout the city. Mr. McAnulty further said:

"It is very evident that I could not assimilate my food properly; for I would eat good, substantial meals, but in spite of all I did in the way of foods and medicine I remained underweight and could not gain a pound."

Finally, nearly a year ago, after hearing so much about Tanlac for run-down systems, I concluded to see what this medicine would do in my case. So I started taking it and kept it up to three months ago before I began taking on weight. Tanlac kept me with a fine appetite and feeling fine all the time, however, and when I found myself getting heavier I was very much delighted."

"I now weigh one hundred and forty-two pounds, have gained 15 pounds by taking Tanlac—which is just the right weight for a man my size and build. I could not feel better if I wanted to, for I am as healthy a person as could be found. I'll recommend Tanlac to anybody who wants something to build them up, and they stick to it as I did. I don't believe they will be disappointed."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; Shaw's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

MISSIONS TO JAPAN

Jesuit Missionary at St. Peter's Told Interesting Story of Work and Sacrifice

At St. Peter's church, yesterday, Rev. W. J. McNeill, S. J., gave an interesting account of Catholic missions in Japan. He came to appeal for aid for the purpose of building a Catholic college in Tokyo as the Japanese government has agreed to allow the erection of such a college, provided sufficient funds be available to conduct it so that it may be a creditable structure and properly sustained. It was estimated that $300,000 would be sufficient for the purpose and although this sum does not appear very large in the United States, it seems much greater as viewed from Japan.

He told of the early Catholic missions in Japan conducted by St. Francis Xavier. In 1549 he baptized 3000 people in Japan and had there a flourishing Catholic colony. He died while trying to carry the work to China. In 1550 the Dominican order established a university in the Philippines and that explains why the people of those islands are today Catholic so far as they hold any religion. They also went to China, India, Syria and other eastern nations. The speaker then described the terrible persecutions by which the original Catholic missions were stamped out. Enemies of the faith from Holland and England reached Japan and stirred up prejudice against the Catholics with the result that the most cruel kind of persecution followed. For fifty years this persecution raged. Christianity was prohibited and the missionaries were put to death. In one day 26 were crucified; others were burned to death in a slow fire and some in the northern regions were put out on frozen lakes to freeze to death. This was carried on under three rulers and Japan was closed against the outside world until opened by Admiral Perry of the United States. Since that time various Christian denominations have established missionary houses and colleges in Japan.

The present work of the Catholic missionaries has been revised largely through the efforts of Pope Pius X and His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell. Before he became an archbishop, Fr. O'Connell was sent as an envoy of the pope to Japan and was favorably received. As a result His Holiness planned the erection of a college that may ultimately develop into a university and give degrees same as other colleges.

The speaker told of a strange incident of missionary life in Japan in recent years. A band of Japanese from a distance entered a Catholic mission and began to inquire as to the teachings of the church and whether there was a recognized spiritual head in Rome. It was found that they were Catholics whose people had maintained the old faith through the ages of persecution and came in search of missionaries of their faith.

At present there are 75,000 Catholics attending the missions, which is about one for every 500 of the population of 60,000,000.

At present the Japanese are building a great temple at Tokyo to Buddha, and the names of large contributors are cut in the foundation stones, while

A garden is not a complete success unless every inch of space is made use of during the entire season. This can only be accomplished by a carefully planned succession of crops or by inter-planting. Early peas will be out of the way so that vines can be removed by July 1st. When rows are not too near together and soil is fertile, tomato plants can be set in every other space between rows. If well fertilized with manure or nitrate of soda, they will grow just as fast as they would by themselves and as soon as they really need more space the peas vines are pulled and out of the way. Cucumbers can also be started in the same manner. The second crop being started only between every other row leaves the other space between rows for picking and doing other work with the peas.

If soil is too poor to prevent inter-planting peas and early beans can be followed by late beans, beets or cabbage, after the vines of the first crop have been removed. Except in unusually cool, moist soil, peas will not do well if planted after June 1st. They are a cool weather crop and become stunted and give very small yields if they are made to grow in hot, dry weather.

Lettuces, radishes and spinach should be planted in small quantities at frequent intervals throughout the entire summer season. All of these vegetables are at their best for only a short time and a good gardener should not be satisfied with products that have passed their most palatable stage, for by a little careful planning they can be had at their best all the time.

There should be several plantings of beets up to July 15. The tops are always fine for greens and the roots are never so good as when about two inches in diameter, especially if they are made to grow rapidly by heavy fertilization and frequent cultivation.

These beets, which is the little black, junction insect, which has already begun to appear on tomatoes and potatoes, cannot be killed by poison as it is a sucking insect. Neither can it be destroyed by the use of contact insecticides because it moves about so rapidly that it is difficult to hit. The only means of control is by frequent spraying with Bordeaux mixture or some prepared insecticide containing copper sulphate which acts as a repellent.

A STOMACH TONIC

There is a form of indigestion called "atonic" dyspepsia. Atonic means "lack of tone." It is probably the most common form of indigestion but not much is heard about it because people are inclined to group all forms of dyspepsia as "stomach trouble."

Lack of tone in the digestive organs means that the stomach is no longer able to do its work as nature intended. The nerves that control it are weak, the glands that supply the digestive juices are not working properly. Gas on the stomach, sour risings in the throat and constipation result. The cause of the trouble is this: blood, stomach, nerves and glands are all dependent on the blood and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and the first response from the stomach is a better appetite, freedom from distress after eating and an increase in ambition and energy generally. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a stomach tonic and see how your general health improves.

A diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Every druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Price, sixty cents per box.—Adv.

Clothes

by Berton Braley

He had an opinion he wished to express,
A moral he longed to apply,
Regarding such follies of feminine dress
As skirts that were narrow—and high;
Or openwork hostery, waists that were sheer,
And shoes that were tall as to heel,
He didn't approve of such feminine gear—
A fact he was quick to reveal!

He jeered women's fashions as silly and vain,
Unhealthily, immodest and wrong—
An attitude which he seemed bound to explain
At length and in full to the throng.
"The clothing which women are wearing," he cried,
"Was certainly made and designed
To show that there's nothing but nonsense inside
The average feminine mind!"

And while he discoursed in this eloquent way,
His freely and fully perspired,
Because, in the heat of a midsummer day,
His body was fully attired
In a thick woolen suit and a hard-bosomed shirt
And a collar as stiff as a slate,
With his feet in some pointed-toed brogans that hurt,
And his head in a black derby hat!

Auto Overturned; Aged Woman Killed

CARIBOU, Me., June 6.—Mrs. Celia Ziter, aged 70, of Fort Kent, was killed at Hamlin yesterday afternoon when an automobile driven by Charles Solomon, a Caribou merchant, was overturned. Solomon's eyes were blackened, as were those of his wife, and the latter sustained a dislocated wrist. Their three children were slightly injured. Two other occupants of the car, both women, were not hurt. Solomon turned quickly to avoid a collision with another automobile and with his view shut off by a cloud of dust, he left the road. The car was wrecked.

To Arbitrate Reparation Question

PARIS, June 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The reparations commission has proposed to the council of ambassadors that the commission be authorized to refer to a neutral arbitrator questions upon which it is unable to agree. The proposal has provoked considerable criticism in French quarters. The peace treaty provides that the commission may refer questions of procedure to a neutral arbitrator, but does not mention arbitration on questions of policy.

BADLY INJURED IN FALL FROM ROLLER COASTER

Christian Gunther, aged 20 years, and residing in Draught, is in a serious condition at the Lowell Corporation hospital as a result of an accident which occurred Saturday night at Lakewood park. The young man is suffering from internal injuries and it is feared that he will not recover, although today's reports were to the effect that he is resting more comfortably than he did yesterday.

As far as could be learned Gunther was enjoying a ride on the roller coaster and when the top run was reached he stood up and attempted to put on his coat. He jerked to one side and lost his balance, falling over the scaffolding to the ground. He was picked up unconscious and rushed to the hospital.

CITY LEAGUE GAME

The St. Columbus baseball nine showed their old time form Sunday by defeating the fast Unity A.C. in a 12-inning contest. The Unity A.C. proved to be a mighty team in the 10th inning when the St. Columbus filled the sacks but were retired without scoring. Molloy scored the winning run in the last of the 12th.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Tardiff, St. Columbus' star twirler. He allowed only 3 hits, issued two walks and struck out 12 men.

The Unity team used three pitchers, Trask pitching the overtime innings. The score was 4 to 3.

Saw Many Swept to Death

waters and the flood lapped at the coach steps and began rising rapidly. "It was soon rushing through the car. Some of us went up and down in the cars quieting the passengers, many of whom were screaming and moaning and praying.

"A young girl was sitting in her seat crying and I stopped to reassure and comfort her. She said she was from Chicago and sobbingly called out: 'Daddy, daddy, I told her we would look after her and it cheered her. But—well, I saw her swept away as the water rushed into the coaches and carried us out through windows and doors.

"An old lady sat in her seat, smiling, just before the water flooded in on us. She declared that if it were her time to go she was prepared, and kept on smiling. I reckon she died in her seat. I saw a young man sitting in an upper berth with his mother consoling him. She was praying.

"In the water we clung to the coaches of the train which were swaying back and forth with the waves and striking the coaches of the Missouri Pacific train.

"Screams and cries of anguish rose. I saw some people go to their deaths crushed between the two trains. A great pile of lumber came rushing down upon us, sweeping over us, striking some of those clutching there with precarious hold on the cars. They were torn loose and went floating down to death. I saw a man break his way through the top of a coach only to be washed down in the flood.

"On either side of us houses and barns and other buildings were swirling down. Many people were clinging to them. I saw two men on the top of a house. The structure struck the bridge and crumpled like an egg shell. I saw their white hands a moment on the water.

"Morning came. The waters had been receding. Those of us who were left—about 50—were able to reach the ground and walk around in water above our knees.

"Some of the unconscious women and children were left in the dark. It was a scene of devastation and death. It was awful.

"I cannot say what the loss might be. I know it must be far over a hundred lives, for at least that many I am sure, were lost off our train and the Missouri Pacific train, though more from the last named train were found alive."

Worst Flood in History

approach to normal conditions is a matter of weeks. Levees must be repaired before the business section can be cleared of water.

All Dams Already Gone

It seemed early today that all danger of a repetition of the flood in Pueblo had passed, barring another cloudburst. Every dam on either the Arkansas or Fountain rivers from which danger might be expected, was already gone.

The local Red Cross placed the number of bodies found at approximately 100, basing its estimate on reports of personal investigation of the devastated area.

The number of persons in temporary hospitals was placed at 500 by J. E. Morehead, secretary of Governor Shoupe. Typhoid, pneumonia, diphtheria and one or two cases of insanity were found among these patients.

A complete field hospital unit from Fort Logan was expected to reach here today.

May Appeal to Washington

At a conference early today of military, city and state officials in which Governor Shoupe took part, repair of the levees was decided upon as one of the first problems to be met. It was considered possible that aid of the federal government would be sought.

Floods of lesser magnitude were reported early today by several towns in Kansas. All are along the course of the Arkansas river, which overflowed its banks here. Syracuse and Gardner, Kas., have reported sweeping floods, and all towns in the Arkansas valley, have been warned of the rising river.

Las Animas, Colo., early today reported the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe shops at La Junta under five feet of water, the railroad yards wrecked, and 200 freight cars swept away. A score of lives were believed to have been lost. Two hundred residences in Las Animas went under three feet of water late last night. Inhabitants fled to public buildings and to the highlands fearing the residence section would be swept away.

Flood at Denver

The Platte river broke its banks at Denver, shortly after midnight inundating several blocks of the west side residential section, from which people fled their homes, taking refuge in the city hall. Red Cross stations cared for the homeless. Last reports from Denver early today said that the river was within one foot of the bridge structures in the business section and still rising.

Three times yesterday came a renewal of the flood here. At 4 o'clock in the morning, water rose several feet when the crest of the flood from the breaking of the Stratton park dam near Colorado Springs, reached Pueblo. In the middle of the afternoon, breaking of the Skagway reservoir and Beaver dam near Victor, coupled with a heavy downpour of rain in the Arkansas river watershed, and in Pueblo caused another rise. Again last night, followed another heavy rainstorm. In none of the floods of yesterday did the waters reach the level of Friday night.

The washout of railway line leading to the stricken area, created menacing situation to be overcome today. Food supplies in Pueblo were estimated by Red Cross officials as being less than sufficient for three days. Roads to the city are impassable for miles around. The only drinking water available today was from a lithia spring on a hill at the outskirts of the city.

Downpour All Night

A heavy downpour of rain continued all through last night and the early morning.

Military patrols were handicapped by the impassable streets, pitch darkness—the city's electric service station having been out of commission since early Friday morning—and the unrelenting downpour.

All persons have been kept from the streets since Saturday evening. Looting has been held to a minimum. No one is permitted to enter the city except the military, Red Cross workers and state and other officials.

With the restoration of telegraphic communication yesterday the suffering community learned of relief measures undertaken by cities throughout the middle west.

Relief Measures

A supply of coats, blankets, lanterns, candles and sweaters arrived yesterday from the Red Cross in Colorado Springs. Col. F. J. Pierce, in charge of the Red Cross, said that so far he had been able to feed and clothe every person applying for aid.

Hundreds of persons applied to the Red Cross for food, clothing and medical relief. A canteen supplied the food. A carload of beef was commandeered from the railroad yards and cooked to prevent its spoiling.

Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis and other large cities closest to the flood area have offered material aid immediately, but are unable to get their offerings to the community because of the demoralized transportation conditions.

Doctors and Undertakers Arrive

The basement of every building in the downtown section is filled with water and mud. Windows of basements were crushed in by the flood and military officials say that bodies may be found here weeks later, when it has been possible to pump out the basements and shovel out the mud.

Fourteen doctors and 25 nurses have arrived from Colorado Springs. Fifteen embalmers arrived from Denver and 16 from Colorado Springs.

All the levees were washed out in the flood and restoration of the river to its natural bed presents an engineering problem of magnitude.

In the vicinity of the state hospital, the nearest the correspondent could approach to the natural bed of the river, was half a mile. Parts of the railroad yards there had been washed away and the river had established a new channel, virtually covering the entire section of bottoms known as the Grove.

The Santa Fe railway notified the communities on its line in the Arkansas valley of Kansas, that the rush of Colorado floodwater had crossed the state line and local representatives of the company were instructed to be prepared for any emergency.

"The warning has been ample, and there need be no loss of life in Kansas," said F. C. Fox, general manager of the Santa Fe. The Santa Fe will co-operate with the communities along its line to keep the property loss down to the minimum.

The road issued an embargo against the flooded district, applicable to livestock and perishable freight. People of Dodge City, Kas., figured that the flood crest would reach that locality shortly after noon today. Heavy rains were reported west of Dodge City.

BUSINESS GAINS SLOWLY

John Moody Analyzes the Present Situation of Commerce and Finance

BY JOHN MOODY
President of Moody's Investors Service

NEW YORK, June 6.—A slow but definite and tangible recovery in business is already shown, and it is more evident that the depression was at its worst around the end of February.

Cheap raw materials, together with moderate costs of labor and capital, are producing general betterment.

From the highest of last year materials are off 30 to 50 per cent, while labor costs, including the wage cuts and the greater efficiency, are down 20 to 30 per cent, and time money is tending around 60 per cent, against 9 per cent, last August.

Cheap materials, capital and labor are the three stuffs out of which prosperity is always made; and the slowness of the present improvement may be attributed to the fact that labor and capital are not yet really cheap.

Recovery a Fact

The recovery, itself, however, is rather a fact than an opinion, although in some lines it is not yet felt.

Railroad operating expenses have been so drastically reduced that the net before taxes is now about three times as great as it was in February; the volume of traffic has been showing steadily gains for many weeks; domestic consumption of wool has increased 100 per cent, since December, and cotton consumption is beginning to gain; credits have been granted to the extent of probably about four billions; bank reserves have so increased as to wipe out the financial and monetary dangers which existed a year ago; and commercial failures have sharply diminished as to liabilities.

Stocks Sold Down

Both manufacturing companies and wholesale and retail trading concerns have considerably strengthened themselves by selling down their stocks of goods and materials since the turn of the year; and the shortages of cash assets and working capital are being overcome.

Re-employment of labor in the manufacturing industries is almost universally going on except in such tardy branches as steel and minerals. Building construction, especially in dwellings, is improving so rapidly as to show a gain of about 200 per cent, over January.

Extravagance is everywhere being eliminated; the world's governments are cutting their expenses; and German indemnity funds promise soon to become a powerful stimulant to the world's business.

Back to Normal

After a great war it usually takes 20 to 30 years for prices, wages and living costs to get back strictly to normal; and probably it will be so in this case; but more pertinent is the fact that we have already readjusted sufficiently to warrant the expectation of real prosperity sometime next year, and possibly as early as the fourth quarter of this year.

Producing and operating costs have been generally reduced by something like 25 per cent, and when once the volume of sales and production recovers, the burden of heavy taxes and public debts should be much less felt.

During the past year costs and prices have been coming down to fit per capita incomes; but during the next 12 months incomes promise to grow enough to comfortably fit costs and prices.

One must give special emphasis to the restoration of margins of profit, the gradual re-employment of labor, and the actuality of the slow betterment which is now under way.

LOVE OF ANIMALS

IS GOOD SIGN

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING
"Well, it was only a dog," said the rather pretty woman. Then she went on telling her little son that he "mustn't do that again." And the soft-boiled, little brown-furred puppy lay in a lump heap where the child had thrown it. Its head had struck a sharp stone.

"Only a dog," but it was a living thing and the possession of something which must be very much like a soul. If actions count. And some day, the little boy grown tall will get angry again and then his mother may not say "only a dog."

For every child who can be cured to little dogs, there is, later, someone who can be cruel to human beings.

It was in Kentucky, along the rugged banks of Knob creek, that a little pup was kicked over a ledge and fell bruised and bleeding on the stone below. And according to Austin Gollagher, the boyhood friend of Abraham Lincoln and the narrator in J. Roger Gorr's book on Lincoln's childhood, it was that pup which Lincoln found and nursed back to health, on which he depended most for companionship.

Wherever the tall giant lad was seen, Honey with the twisted foot was to be found. On his long, silent rambles through Kentucky woodlands, Honey was his understanding friend, and it was Honey who brought rescuers when, one day, the boy became

WOMAN FLYER KILLED

Laura Bromwell, Loop-the-Loop Champion, Falls 1000 Feet to Her Death

MINNEOLA, N. Y., June 6.—Miss Laura Bromwell, holder of the loop-the-loop record for women, and one of the best known women pilots in the world, was killed at Mitchell field yesterday afternoon. She was flying at an altitude of about 1000 feet. She had just completed one loop and was about to make a second when something went wrong with the plane and it crashed to the ground.

Miss Bromwell, whose home was in Cincinnati, was 23 years old.

She established her loop-the-loop record on May 15 last when she executed 139 loops in an hour and 20 minutes. That same afternoon she piloted her airplane over a two-mile straight-away course at the rate of 135 miles an hour.

Military observers who witnessed the flight declared that the girl's airplane motor stopped abruptly as she was making the upward turn of the loop. Suddenly, the machine fell backward into a tail spin and dropped like a plummet onto the road just outside the field.

Hundreds of spectators gasped with astonishment as the plane fell, and then rushed to where it struck the ground. The girl's lifeless body was found in the tangled wreckage. Miss Bromwell had tested her machine before engaging in her stunts, army officers said, and had pronounced it in good condition.

Was Adventurous
CINCINNATI, June 6.—Miss Laura Bromwell who was killed when her airplane fell at Minneola yesterday was of an adventurous disposition. She once dived off the suspension bridge into the Ohio river on a wager. Several business men attracted by Miss Bromwell's daring, prevailed upon her to take up aviation and within a few months she was famed for looping the loop.

THE VOTERS NOT TO BLAME

It is to be hoped that the voters of Lowell will from this time forward devote some serious thought to the provisions of the new city charter. In some quarters, it is alleged that it makes very little difference what kind of a charter we have, as the electorate will never select the right kind of officials under any charter. It is perhaps true that we shall never have ideal men. That is too much to expect, but when the system of government makes the selection of good men very difficult, it should be abolished as soon as possible. That is the main fault to be urged against the present charter. It is wrong in principle, wrong in plan, wrong in practically every innovation that it foisted upon the cities that adopted it.

The electorate is not responsible for the fact that men are chosen without regard to qualification for positions requiring technical knowledge and long experience, nor is the electorate responsible for the fact that business men whose experience would be of great value to the city, refuse to mix in the mud-slinging battles waged to secure the privilege of drawing the salaries paid under the present charter for a commission. The electorate is just as good today as it ever was, but it hasn't a chance under the present charter. Every man who enters that contest, however honest and sincere, is sure to be misrepresented by corrupt politicians, who have the privilege of getting up on the street corners and making false charges to delude the voters. It would appear that the experience we have had under the present city charter, should teach the voters the necessity of adopting a new law that will allow every part of the city to elect its representative to the municipal council and that will put men in charge of the municipal departments who are competent and then hold them responsible for results. There is no other way of getting the city's business transacted in a proper manner.

The new charter is very much like the one that was abandoned over ten years ago, with the exception that instead of two branches in the municipal council there is but one; but the functions are practically the same and the cause of deadlocks is removed. There is sufficient time from now until October to study the new charter and to ascertain just what its provisions are. It has been misrepresented in many ways and for this reason, 'The Sun' is giving space to articles calculated to enlighten the public upon its main provisions, so that when the special election comes, the voters may be able to act intelligently in regard to the entire question.

THE BUILDING SHORTAGE

Everybody agrees that the country is suffering from a great building shortage. Everybody agrees that there is something radically wrong somewhere, when the great need for buildings of all kinds cannot be met although there are millions of men unemployed. When it comes to fixing the blame for this ridiculous condition of things, there seems to be very great difference of opinion. Some charge it to the high price of steel; some to the high prices of other building materials; others to the high wages demanded by labor. Every fellow wants the other fellow to "liquorate" and is quite sure that he would do so there would be an immediate building boom. The employers and material men are beginning to quarrel among themselves as to which class among them is the greatest profiteer. The steel men have finally turned on the other material fellows and have given out some very interesting figures. They show that on May 1, this year, structural steel prices showed an advance over May, 1913, of 43 per cent. Brick in the same period showed an advance of 165 per cent, lime 206 per cent, and cement 96 per cent.

The employees in the building trades, who are disinclined to have their wages drastically deflated, seem to have nothing on these building material chaps. The 43 per cent steel increase is not so much out of line, everything considered. But advances ranging from 96 to 206 per cent make the so-called labor profiteers look like pikers. Very properly the Boston News Bureau, a leading financial daily, asks: "Has there been deflation-dodging in building materials as well as in building trades labor?"

As a few of the material men hold up prices, so a few of the building trades refuse to lower wages. The combination holds back building operations and keeps many men in idleness who would otherwise be profitably employed.—N.E.A.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK BRIGHTER

Within the past few weeks, there have been indications of a gradual improvement in the textile industry. There is a more definite approach to stabilization, which, if continued, will mean better business, although the prospect for the next two months does not promise any very great change. In the wholesale and retail trade there has been some recession, although more marked in the former than the latter. The month of May falls between the spring and summer seasons and is, therefore, not usually marked by normal production. In some industries there was a decline due mainly to this interseasonal lull. With the opening of the present month there is evident a greater spirit of optimism, which will probably have more substantial support as the season advances.

It is announced that the American Woolen Company is running 50 per cent. capacity and that it will be able to continue this pace into the mid-summer. The manufacturers in cotton and woolen mills alike are endeavoring to hold as many as possible of their employees and to divide up the work as fairly as possible in the hope that an early improvement will enable them to provide for all. The manufacturer who is able to keep running without making any profit or paying any dividends, may consider himself fortunate in not having been driven to the wall.

Getting Cold Feet

No lawyer should undertake to address a jury after he reaches 65 years of age, says Thomas P. McDow, former special judge and one of the most successful criminal lawyers in South Carolina. McDow is now 57 years of age and has been practicing law for more than 30 years. "I watched it all my life," says McDow. "At 65 a lawyer's words don't make the impression on a jury that a younger man's do. I am good for about five years more. After that nothing but office practice for me."

The Power of the Press

Senor V. Blasco Ibañez, the Spanish novelist, believes in his profession and declares (in the Times Book Review) that "without any doubt whatever, the novel is the most important and characteristic literary manifestation of modern life." But no, Senor, the most important literary manifestation of modern life is the newspaper. The world could get along without novels better than you may think, but without newspapers grass would grow in the streets and civilization would come back into fashion.—H. S. Martin in Life.

Doesn't Like Andover

A North Andover subscriber has recently purchased a pig. To all outward appearances this pig is a perfectly normal young animal, but he certainly has an abnormal taste for running away. The other day his mistress heard the Salem car making a terrific amount of tooting and she ran to the door to see what the trouble could be. It was nothing less than her own little pig on the track. Said little pig would not budge for several minutes but when she approached he ran. Before he was finally caught several machines had been lined up on the roadside—some of the occupants of which were just looking on, others taking part in the chase and the rest scared for fear they would run over him. The pen was thereupon made doubly secure but even then the little fellow escaped and called on one of the neighbors. They tried to get him that half the neighborhood, I guess, appeared to see what dreadful thing could be happening to the poor little pig.—Lawrence Telegram.

Gardening

Now Gladys takes her trowel and puts it on her back. And she tries to do the work she loves. She kneels in attitude of prayer, and she plants the seeds in little rows, with ever patient toil. And as she plants I almost think she breathes a little prayer. That kindly Nature reward her watchful, tender care.

And when the little plants come up, O, how her heart does bound! She gives them water, she feeds and she richness in the ground. She tends the sproutlets tenderly, and watches how they grow. And how she rejoices when the buds begin to show. For Gladys loves the little plants, that grow from little seeds. And, truth to tell, I almost think she almost loves the weeds!

MAN ABOUT TOWN

It would be a good idea if all the building crafts would get together and agree upon a policy that would encourage proprietors to start building enterprises. Some of the crafts have cut wages as deeply as they could afford; but one or two others hold to the old figures. I am informed that most building materials are now selling at reasonable prices. There should be some general policy and some all around agreement that would help to get up a building boom in Lowell before the season wanes.

Here is an item from a Boston paper that will interest everybody who is familiar with the habits of squirrels:

The plight of the five young gray squirrels found recently in the Old Granite quarry ground with their tails tied together is not the cruel trick of some human being, but that the mother squirrel herself, according to F. S. Wilbur of Lake Pleasant. The mother squirrel ties the tails of the young to keep them from falling out of their nest that is usually high up among the tree branches, he says. You will find the old mother squirrel responsible for their condition to keep them from falling. Mr. Wilbur writes, I have found two similar cases in the last two years, one of three and one of four squirrels tied together.

Most people will wonder how the squirrel ties the knot, whether it unties or leaves the little fellows to wriggle out of the entanglement.

Beware of the egg man! Twice within a few days residents of Fort Hill avenue and Huntington street have been taken in by this egg peddler. His scheme is to choose a house, knock on the door, and say to the next house and says that the lady of the house where there is no light had ordered two and sometimes three dozen fresh eggs from the country and would they not take them for her, always asking the highest market price. Of course the obliging neighbor comes across with the cash. The eggs on examination are not any too fresh.

Views of Restoring Parity in Exchange with Europe

(Special to The Sun.)

PARIS, June 6.—All Europe suffers from the same malady that afflicted the United States, following the Civil war—unlimited expansion in the issuance of paper money. Financial health will not be restored to Europe until the same remedy we applied—resumption of specie payments. And Europe, particularly France, cannot resume specie payments until the French people are ready themselves to be taxed to a sufficient degree so that the French treasury can be put into condition which warrants resumption.

There are two curious qualities in the Frenchman's attitude toward the fiscal side of his government. He will not tolerate a government which proposes direct taxation as a remedy for lack of funds in the treasury, and he is practically without conscience when it comes to avoidance of any tax, whether direct or indirect. Now it is a moral certainty that France will have to resort to, not only direct, but heavy direct, taxation before there can be any restoration of health and stability to French national finances. But while, so I am told, French officials will direct the fiscal affairs of the country, privately admit that the French people must pay far heavier taxes, publicly they play with the idea that German reparations can be made to take the place of taxes to pay for the war, and with the even more remote possibility that ultimately the United States and Great Britain will cancel the debts which France incurred during the progress of hostilities.

In both of these expectations France rides to a fall, she is building the most unsubstantial of castles in Spain. Even with Germany yielding without reservation to the terms of the London allied conference agreement, there is no warrant for the hope that French fiscal needs will be met in that quarter. And while both the United States and Great Britain may entertain the suggestion that payments of interest be long deferred, neither country is at all likely to be sympathetic to any suggestion looking to complete cancellation of the principal sum of the debt owed them.

Direct Tax Necessary in France

There is but one way in which France can recover her pre-war financial strength, but one way in which she can restore her franc to parity, measured with the dollar yardstick, and that is—to tax herself. Even the huge and critical needs of war-time finance did not suffice to overcome the Frenchman's prejudice against paying taxes. France financed her war necessities by bond issues, both domestic and foreign, which, of course, meant merely postponing the day of reckoning. Today, despite the desperate condition of the government financially, the latter has not summoned the courage to tax adequately. Measured by present American standards of post-war taxation, the Frenchman pays about seventy per cent of the amount the American pays. And America is governmentally affluent, while France is impoverished to a degree that is so stupendous that the Briand government literally has not dared to make an accurate accounting and tell the people exactly where their government stands. Now the people of the United States have a very acute interest in the restoration of financial normalcy in France, and in all of continental Europe. At the present time the United States is the only nation in the world among the great powers which is on a gold basis. PARIS, June 6.—All Europe suffers from the same malady that afflicted the United States, following the Civil war—unlimited expansion in the issuance of paper money. Financial health will not be restored to Europe until the same remedy we applied—resumption of specie payments. Direct Tax Necessary in France

There is but one way in which France can recover her pre-war financial strength, but one way in which she can restore her franc to parity, measured with the dollar yardstick, and that is—to tax herself. Even the huge and critical needs of war-time finance did not suffice to overcome the Frenchman's prejudice against paying taxes. France financed her war necessities by bond issues, both domestic and foreign, which, of course, meant merely postponing the day of reckoning. Today, despite the desperate condition of the government financially, the latter has not summoned the courage to tax adequately. Measured by present American standards of post-war taxation, the Frenchman pays about seventy per cent of the amount the American pays. And America is governmentally affluent, while France is impoverished to a degree that is so stupendous that the Briand government literally has not dared to make an accurate accounting and tell the people exactly where their government stands. Now the people of the United States have a very acute interest in the restoration of financial normalcy in France, and in all of continental Europe. At the present time the United States is the only nation in the world among the great powers which is on a gold basis. Great Britain is steadily fighting her way back, is sure to get back to a gold standard, and for the purpose of this discussion can be ignored. Because we are on a gold basis and all of Europe is on a paper money basis, our dollar is at a tremendous premium. This so great disparity has operated to practically close the doors of European trade to our manufacturers just when American goods were badly needed abroad and our export business alone could save our domestic industry from indefinite curtailment.

Buying Heavily Abroad

There are two possible ways in which they can bring about a change, can remove the barrier which disparity in exchange has erected. One is to buy heavily abroad, and pay for our purchases in gold. But such a policy would leave American mills and factories idle, and American workmen unemployed. Your idealistic free-trader of the college cloister type would heartily endorse such a plan bringing to bear his theoretical argument in support of free and untrammelled exchange of commodities between nations as a sure corrective for such a situation as that which confronts us. But, happily, American economic policies are under the control of more practical men who assess the value of the domestic market highly, and who do not propose, if they can help it, to achieve parity of conditions by bringing conditions in America down to the level of conditions abroad. Nothing is more certain, politically, than the early enactment of a protective tariff law which eliminates the possibility of a restoration of parity in exchange. The process of import for non-made goods upon an extensive scale and paying for such purchases in gold.

The only remaining alternative, as a means of restoring parity in exchange, is the widespread investment of American money in foreign securities, such investments to be covered by shipments of gold. This method would be ideal from the American standpoint. It would serve promptly to bring about parity in exchange, because it would check the flow of gold westward and start the reaction, and it would leave to American manufacturers and producers their domestic market unimpeded. Nay, it would do more. If American money modernized and rehabilitated European public utilities, railroads and industries, such investments would naturally buy much of their requisite new machinery and equipment in the United States and our export trade would be immeasurably improved. It was exactly this policy which built up the great overseas trade of Great Britain, and although the British have domestic problems aplenty, it is significant that British capital is already being employed in precisely this manner.

The Chief Obstacle

The sole obstacle to recourse to this expedient is found in the dilatoriness in getting their fiscal policies straightened out. One of the managers of a big American trust company, with a Paris branch, told me today that he would hesitate to recommend American investment in French industrial securities until France resolutely faced her financial problem and settled upon the method which she would apply to meet the situation. This may take the form of largely increasing the present sales, or turning over a heavy capital loss, or a possible arbitrary reduction in the value of outstanding paper money to one-half its present nominal value. Until this question is settled American investment in French private enterprises must wait. When it is settled American investment in France will probably take on stable proportions. Hence the acute interest which I believe American bankers and business men ought to take in French progress toward financial stability. If the world has acquired any worth-while estimate of the French character, it has, at least, acquired the conviction that France will always meet successfully each successive crisis with which she is confronted. She is sure to meet satisfactorily the very real one which she faces today.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Enter the paper hats, because now instead of one hat for $25 it will be 25 hats for $1 each. The idea comes from Paris, of course. And the paper is so waxed and chemically treated that it is said to house plans, shelled storage rooms for beyond destruction by the elements.

LOWELL PEOPLE ATTEND

Cardinal Lays Corner Stone at
Cambridge—Pays Tribute
to French Catholics

BOSTON, June 6.—About 10,000 people, many of them French Catholics from various parts of the state, participated yesterday in the ceremonies carried out at the laying of the corner-stone of the Church of Notre Dame de l'Assomption, located on Rindge avenue, North Cambridge.

Cardinal O'Connell officiated. The Rev. J. F. Soller, S.M., rector of the Church of Our Lady of Victories, Isabelle street, this city, who delivered the oration of the day in French, told the cardinal of the loyalty and good wishes of the French Catholic population. The cardinal was accompanied by the Rev. Richard J. Haberlin, his secretary.

Nearly 5000 men, women and children, most of them of the parish and many from Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Springfield, Holyoke, Waltham, Watertown and other parts of the state, marched through the streets of North Cambridge, from the church building now in use in Harvey street to the new location in Rindge avenue, two bands (marching music).

Priests from every parish in Cambridge and from other cities took part in the exercises.

Veterans of the world war, carrying the Stars and Stripes and the French tricolor, as well as the state flag, had a place in the line of the procession and took a position of honor at the ceremony.

Joseph Flammand, French consul; Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, and other officials were present.

Just before the laying of the stone, Cardinal O'Connell, accompanied by the Rev. Adolphe Rabel, S.M., pastor of the parish, and the priests who participated, proceeded to the interior of the church structure, where prayers were read.

After the cardinal had officiated at the ceremony of the laying of the stone, he spoke in part as follows: "Let me say, and I am happy to take this occasion to say it, that this fraternal union and charity, as it concerns the relations between this parish and your people and the head of this diocese, are well nigh perfect. Let me say in all frankness, and I am happy and proud to say it, that the French-Canadian people, the Catholics who speak the French language, in this archdiocese, are among its very first in fidelity to the faith. In generosity to good works and in their unity with the head of the diocese."

"Again let me repeat since my advent here as your archbishop, I have never had one disagreeable moment, either from the French-Canadian or French speaking priests of this diocese, but I have had many of consolation and satisfaction."

"Therefore, to come here and be with you today is my pleasure and my privilege, and I want you to interpret my presence as a sign of being a sign of our mutual affection."

"To you, Father Rabel, and to your associates of the Mariet Fathers in this parish, let me offer my most sincere and cordial congratulations. From the beginning of the work of the Mariet fathers in this diocese I have been familiar with their character, their prudence and complete unity with the authority of the diocese."

"With such priests to guide them, it is no wonder that the good people of this parish have manifested their devotion, their co-operation and their wonderful generosity. When one thinks that in four short years, Father Rabel tells me, he has been able to gather among you over $50,000 for the building of this church, from people indeed whose very contribution means a personal sacrifice, this in itself is a wonderful indication of your faith and of your charity."

PASTOR BABCOCK GETS A DIVINITY DEGREE

The announcement was made at the morning service in the First Baptist church yesterday that the pastor of the church, Rev. Edw. Babcock, will in the future be entitled to place the abbreviation "D.D." after his name. William Law Ferguson, the missionary of the church in India, who is in this country on his sabbatical year's leave of absence, conveyed the information to the congregation that Mr. Babcock has been awarded the degree of doctor of divinity. The members of the congregation greeted the announcement of the conferring of the honor by standing.

Dr. Ferguson, at the evening service of the church, told of present political and industrial conditions in India, and said that a great movement is in progress there to give the country a separate existence as an independent nation.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatre's Own Press Agents

THE STRAND

"The Devil" of Mr. George Arliss at The Strand, which is to be shown all this week, starting with tonight, is not the Mephistophelean devil of the horns and spiked tail. His particular devil is a polished, well-bred gentleman who, in the guise of a friend, leads in love a mighty weapon with which to destroy the goodness of human beings who are trying to do what the world calls right. Mr. Arliss, it will be remembered, created "The Devil" on the speaking stage and, by the subtlety and polish of his performance won the praise of the critics of the country, and the public. His screen interpretation is no less potent and finished, while the production itself, by virtue of its artistry of setting, photography, lighting, direction and acting, reaches a peak of pictorialistic art and has been acclaimed one of the really great pictures.

In connection with the local presentation, arrangements have been made for the introduction of a real prologue—something brand new in local picture circles. Charles Barton will be seen as Satan, and Miss Mildred Beauclerc will appear in "The Dance of Death."

The management has gone to considerable extra expense in presenting this film feature on such an elaborate scale, and it is generally expected that the theatre public of Lowell and vicinity will reflect its appreciation by attending in large numbers at all performances. This is only the start of many new and entertaining novelties to be introduced during the summer schedule.

"All Dressed Up" with Gladys Walton starring, will be equally interesting to young and old. It deals with the tangled romance of Maggie Quick, a shop girl, and Eva Bundy, a millionaire's daughter. It gives the star a great opportunity to blend her artistry with dramatic thrills. A fight for every class is the rule. Maggie takes a flier in the love market and wins by a lach. It's mighty interesting to see how she does it.

Besides the above two features there will be the usual comedy and Weekly. The special ventilating system installed at the Strand makes the theatre the "cool and comfortable" spot it is. You may be sweating on the outside, but if you step into the theatre you will find it just to your liking. No far temperature is concerned. Try it once and be convinced. It's certainly worth the price alone.

H. F. KELTH'S THEATRE

Today ushers in the final and forthright week of the current vaudeville season at the H. F. Kelth theatre, and it also marks the completion of a full ten years of business at this very popular house. Making this concluding week of vaudeville will be a septet of acts which should receive very high commendation.

Craig Campbell, one of the very best of the younger American tenors, destined for very high honors in the world of music, for he is now spoken of as quite the best American tenor that the country possesses. He began his musical career in a church choir, and was later selected for leading roles in light operas. He then joined the Society of American Singers, and he has appeared abroad in concert work. His voice is said to be one showing the infallible signs of the very best training, and a purity of tone which is nothing short of remarkable.

"The Midnight Sons," who are also on this bill are Eddie Kane and Jay Herman. They are comedy warblers, who have a real reason for everything that they offer. Really, they are first and foremost funny men, but so much of their fun emanates from singing that they are billed as singers.

Everybody knows the janitor. It is not everybody loves him. That's why Archer and Bedford have woven him into a comedy skit called "The New Janitor," and it is safe to say that tens of thousands of the American public will appreciate the very clever satire on this individual. Bob Cook and Dorothy Oakman are a pair of delineators from England, who are youthful and right up to the minute in their work, and Danse Fantastiques are to be produced by Frederick Easter and Beatrice Square, who are dancers of note. Then there is Beatrice Doane, the American soprano, and as an opener there will be Fivick & Kenny, daring roller skaters.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"Deception," the great romance

based on actual facts of English history, is the feature attraction at the Merrimack Square theatre for the first three days of the week. Aside from its historic value "Deception" is both spectacular and appealing—spectacular in the splendor of its appointments and pageantry and appealing in the dramatic qualities of its sympathetic story. The scenes are magnificent in every respect and the theme deals with the love of Anne Boleyn for King Henry VIII, England's "royal lover," whose amours all but split Europe. A Sennett comedy, "The Office Cupid," and the International News are other features. There will be no advance in prices for this big bill.

"WAY DOWN EAST"
One hardly realizes in seeing the D. W. Griffith picture, "Way Down East," which comes as a special attraction to the B. F. Kelth theatre the week of June 12th, that only a corps of interlocking camera men could have made possi-

Then their stock seems to be selected with better taste. You never see a poor style piece of Furniture on their floors. I always tell everybody to buy those two articles by all means. Then their terms of payment are convenient if they can't pay all cash. The courtesy of their clerks. ## Adventures of The Twins

THE TWINS GET BUSY

"Hello there!" called Mr. Sprinkle-Blow to Nancy and Nick when he saw them standing in front of the house of the Nuisance Fairies. "I didn't know company had come. How do you do?"

He crossed the road and shook hands cordially with the twins, and then remarked that it was a nice day, or rather that he was going to see to it that it was a nice day. "I've just telephoned," to Mr. Sun to help me out, he nodded, and when old Mr. Sun is in a good humor, he'll do anything for me. But there! You haven't told me yet how you got here, or why you came at all, in fact. And being a curious person, I'd like ever so much to know. That's part of my business, asking questions, because if I don't ask questions and find out what people are planning to do, how can I mix up the proper kind of weather for them? But there, again! I see that I'm not giving you a chance to say a word. Why did you come?"

"The Fairy Queen sent us to help you," answered Nancy. "Do you need us?"

But before Mr. Sprinkle-Blow had time to answer, Nick said quickly, "We're afraid we've made a wrong beginning. Mr. Weatherman, and you won't want us. We—we let out Mr. Flood."

"What?" cried Sprinkle-Blow, so surprised he nearly fell over his own umbrella.

And Nick explained how he had opened the wrong door.

"Gracious alive!" cried the fairy-man. "There isn't a moment to be lost. Here I've promised Mr. Buller Beaver that I'd send him good weather. He told me that he hadn't had time to finish his dam last fall, before I sent the cold weather, and he is hurrying to finish it. Now Old Man Flood will unbottle all the little streams and spout everything!"

Worst Flood In 44 Years

LAS ANIMAS, Colo., June 6.—The flood in the Arkansas river from Pueblo to Arkansas state line is the greatest in 44 years. Water from cloudbursts in the Pueblo section hit La Junta at 3 p. m. yesterday with a 12-foot crest. The water rose at the rate of three feet in 10 minutes, and spread to a three mile width over the lowlands. La Junta is flooded to a depth of three feet and the city is without drinking water or lights.

Tex Rickard May Lose
On His Extravaganza

BY JOHNNY KILBANE
Fetherweight Champion and Georges Carpentier are training under a heavy mental strain don't forget that Tex Rickard is carrying a big load, too.

Rickard is holding the bag—the money bag.

Whether anybody comes to Rickard's extravaganza on July 2 or not he is going to be out close to one million dollars.

For the Dempsey-Carpentier match is the most expensive ring show of prize fight history.

Rickard called it a million dollar fight in the beginning and he's making it just that.

Dempsey and Carpentier are going to split a half million dollars between them it is generally assumed.

There's the first half of the million dollar bank roll shot.

Add to this the amusement tax of $100,000 to be collected by Uncle Sam, plus another $100,000 for the state tax. The arena will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Publicity for the fight will set Rickard back from $25,000 to $50,000 more. Fight insurance adds up the count.

Then there are the preliminaries to the main go. They'll cost another $25,000.

Also it's customary to peel a few more bank notes off the dwindling roll for the referee. And Rickard wouldn't think of handing a referee for his million dollar show anything less than two or three thousand.

Total these items up and you have close to a million spent.

So far the advance sales are heavy. All the 150 pasteboards are gone. Rickard says he's tried to keep 'em out of the hands of scalpers. But no matter how hard he tries, scalping crews always do a certain amount of business.

While the high-priced seats are taken it is the cheaper ones that are the sticklers. They won't be taken—let it all—until the day of the fight.

And it's the cheaper seats that Rickard is really gambling on to make his little profit.

If his arena is packed to the gunwales on July 2 he'll pull out with a little sink.

But if his arena is sparsely populated when the curtain goes up Rickard is going to be out.

He's spending close to a million in hopes of getting it back. That's about all.

Whetherway the money tide flows Rickard will never whimper. For he is a sportsman to the core.

Food Helps Carp Train Up—Not Down

By ALICE ROHE
MANHASSET, L. I., June 6.—Around the clock with Georges Carpentier. It's a mystery. That is, it is supposed to be. The network of barbed wire entanglements behind which he lives makes it so. Food is helping Georges to train up—not down.

Now that everybody is talking about the secrecy in which the European heavyweight champion is shrouded and the mysterious aloofness of Georges in training is causing much comment, a trip around the clock with Carpentier is a privilege.

His Hardest Job
About the hardest work Georges does in the fastness of his 40-acre farm retreat—is trying to be let alone. If you are a real early riser you may see Georges, wearing a flannel shirt, ordinary trousers, sneakers, emerge from the farm house at half past six in the morning. And listen—he has just partaken of cup of tea—just plain tea—nothing brewed with incantations or other things!

Morning Stroll
He is accompanied by Gus Wilson, his trainer, and by Flip, his dog mascot.

Fortified by the tea Georges plunges into his road work. For an hour he walks briskly along the Long Island road, sometimes dipping into the woods belonging to the estates of neighboring property owners.

Sometimes he carries a ball or a rope and plays with Flip, or jumps rope. Upon returning to the farm house he is given a high rubdown or friction rub, after a shower.

Then he breakfasts. It consists of coffee and oatmeal, and sometimes toast.

Lounges Around
Breakfast finished Carpentier shaves and dresses. Then he reads, writes letters, plays the piano—does anything he chooses until noon.

At 12 o'clock—not one minute before or after—he sits down to the midday meal with the members of his training staff. This meal consists of vegetable soup or bouillon, meat, several green vegetables, steamed fruit or occasionally apple pie, caramel pudding or ice cream. The meals are generally roasted.

After lunch the mysterious actions of the great Carpentier which are baffling the curious consist of—taking a rest.

He doesn't sleep—merely lies down for an hour or so. Then he goes to the gymnasium for an hour.

More Lounging
After this comes a shower and the real massage, the special, scientific, mysterious and secret. Then Georges is free to "loaf" until dinner time.

His reads, writes, plays checkers or goes marketing in the car which has been loaned him by admiring Manhasettes, with Gus and Chef Marcot.

Dinner and Sleep
At seven precise he has dinner, once more, en famille. The meal is the same as that at noon except if a dark meat is eaten at lunch a light one is served at night. After dinner Carpentier frequently takes another stroll.

At 9.15 he is in bed—where, he says, he sleeps like a log until 6.30 in the morning. Then the "mystery" of his life begins all over again.

Demand for Hotel Reservations for July 2

NEW YORK, June 6.—Hotel firms here, as well as Promoter "Tex" Rickard and the boxers, will profit from the Dempsey-Carpentier heavyweight championship bout in Jersey City, July 2. Reservation clerks in a half dozen leading hotels today declared that advance requests already were sufficient to indicate that tardy applicants would be forced to seek suburban inns or sleep on the time-honored benches in Central park and Madison Square. Several hotels are planning to provide additional equipment for accommodation of the overflow. The names of notables in public life here and abroad are among those registered. James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight champion, will be an early arrival. He has obtained reservations at one of the largest hotels from June 25, until after the big bout.

Frenchmen Mapping Out Campaign Similar to His Illustrious Countryman

Declares Coming Bout a Battle of Speed, Endurance and Strategy

MANHASSET, N. Y., June 6.—A battle campaign such as Georges Carpentier's illustrious countryman, Marshal Foch, might plan, is being carefully mapped out at the camp of the French boxer.

First and last, Dempsey's challenger, his manager, Francois Desamps, and Gustav Wilson are strategists.

"After all," said Georges during the course of a recent workout, "the theory of military strategy may be applied to boxing. Imagine for instance, that Dempsey, my foe on July 2, is an opponent to be outwitted at the camp."

"We are cognizant of the strength of the foe and the battle ground will be, we might say, familiar to us. We know that the enemy is dangerous and that he will be able to defeat him."

"Hence the challenger is being prepared to meet him on his own terms. He is being prepared to meet him on his own terms. He is being prepared to meet him on his own terms."

DEMP FORCED TO LAY OFF

Cash Over Left Eye Opened by Sparring Partner—Halts Boxing for Few Days

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 6.—Boxing gloves were laid on the shelf in Jack Dempsey's training camp today because of the ugly gash over his left eye which was opened yesterday in a workout of the hardest day's work he has indulged in since training was started here three weeks ago.

The halt in boxing was ordered by Manager Jack Kearns, on the plea of a physician who took a stitch in the wound.

Dempsey probably will not be allowed to put on the gloves for four or five days, but he will continue his road work, bag punching, shadow boxing and other training routine.

The cut was first opened 10 days ago when Dempsey collided with Jack Renauld's, his sparring partner, during a mixup. It was healing nicely during the four days when Dempsey had off last week, but was ripped open yesterday when Larry Williams, an awkwardly attempting to evade a right hand punch, butted the champion. Blood spurted out of the wound profusely.

Previous to the injury which occurred in the 5th round of a six-round workout, Dempsey had not a terrible gash on his forehead, but it was all but knocked out in the first round. Dempsey caught him flush on the chin with a left hook, and Renauld, sliding into the waiting arms of Ted Hayes, Dempsey's trainer, who was refereeing. Williams was staggered and almost felled a half dozen times during the two rounds he faced the rushing Dempsey.

Dempsey's left arm is under the care of Dr. Philip Hanley, of Chicago. A cut on the right arm, which had been open to experience a slight numbness during his workouts, but it is rapidly responding to treatment.

Marking the New Orleans heavyweight after his two round victory, said the champion had improved 100 per cent. in boxing since they boxed together during a theatrical tour before Dempsey won the title.

"I boxed him almost daily for four months, but he's a different man today. He's a different man. He is 100 per cent. improved. He is as fast as a lightweight and has developed a shift that will keep Carpentier jumping sideways."

Twilight League on Fifth Week

The Twilight league will enter upon its fifth week tonight when the Centralville and Broadways meet in a game postponed from May 25.

The Centralville are leading the league with the South Ends a close second. However, the season has not yet progressed sufficiently to give the league standing a really definite outline.

For instance, the Centralville have played only three games while the South Ends have played five, a factor which must be taken into consideration when the standing is discussed.

The Gillespies, last year's champs, have not yet struck their proper stride and have lost four of the five games played. It would not be surprising to see the washing machine men take a spirit and give the leaders a real lesson. The Broadways, Highland Daylights and C.M.A.C. are all dangerous contenders.

The week's schedule is as follows: Tonight—Centralville vs. Broadways.

Tuesday—South Ends vs. C.M.A.C.

Wednesday—C.M.A.C. vs. Broadways.

Thursday—Gillespies vs. South Ends.

Friday—Centralville vs. Highland Daylights.

There's a difference between swinging at the ball and on the ball.

Why should a pitcher throw good balls up to a batter when he goes after bad ones? Answer: There isn't any reason.

If Dempsey doesn't get over Carpentier the fortunes may make a clean sweep of our titles. They're headed for the "silo."

HOW CORBETT WON THE TITLE FROM JOHN L.

The pugilistic crown first worn by John L. Sullivan passed to the head of James J. Corbett on Sept. 7, 1902, in the 21st round of their championship fight.

Corbett had a lot of fun winning the fight and the $45,000 that went with it. He towered three inches above the champion, and continually smiled down at Sullivan in most amazing manner.

Corbett had been a bank clerk before taking the ring seriously, and the fans and newspaper correspondents expressed their amazement at his speed, with remarks about his dancing master tactics. These dancing master tactics eluded the powerful Sullivan, however, and enabled Corbett to pick many openings for an attack.

As the battle spun along toward its end, the Californian forced Sullivan to the defensive. He had the champion draped over the ropes, when the bell rang at the end of the 20th round. In the next round, Sullivan, beaten down by smothering rights and lefts, tried to begin his fight and carried on, but his strength was not equal to his will, and he was counted out.

WOMEN'S GOLF TITLE TO CHANGE HANDS

BROOKLINE, June 6.—The women's eastern golf championship will change hands at the annual tournament which started today on the links of the Council Club.

The title holder, Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Philadelphia, who has won the championship five times is now in Scotland, where she participated in the British championships last year.

Among the 59 entrants for the 36 holes of medal play today and tomorrow are four former winners of the event. They are Miss Fanny C. Oswood, Country Club; Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson, Greenwich; Mrs. C. H. Van derbeck, Philadelphia Cricket Club; and Mrs. W. A. Gavin, Haverhill, N. Y.

Mrs. Gavin, who won the title in 1915, was the runner-up last year. Miss Elizabeth Gordon of Providence, and Miss Millicent Caverly of Philadelphia are other prominent players entered.

For the first time the Fanny C. Oswood shield, presented by Miss Oswood, will be placed in competition for the best aggregate score each day of a team of five players from a club, district or association.

Board Robin Mulliken for the Gelsom cup between New York, Philadelphia and Boston teams will follow the champion play tomorrow. Philadelphia won the trophy last year.

No longer will the pure white balls keep falling eyes alert.

EPIDEMIC OF HOME RUNS AND HEAVY-HITTING

NEW YORK, June 6.—Baseball enthusiasts continue to be amazed by the epidemic of home runs and heavy hitting, and despite repeated denials by league officials and manufacturers of baseballs that the spheres used this season are composed of material that would make them heavier, most of the credit for the unprecedented batting orgy is given to the ball.

Few fans, and comparatively few players, attempting to explain the cause of a live ball, are actually aware of the materials contained in the baseball. The making of a baseball is explained here today by a leading manufacturer who discussed the home run epidemic.

The actual manufacture of the ball begins with the formation of a piece of cork about the size of a marble. Rubber hemispheres, measured and weighed to the fraction of a gram, are made to enclose the cork center and then are vulcanized.

The centre of rubber-encased cork is then wound with Australian wool yarn, the gauge and tension of which is uniform and exact.

When the wool has been wound to almost the regulation size of the ball the cover of horsehide is stretched and sewed on by hand, the artisan using an awl and the strongest cotton thread. The horsehide is used only after it has been in a state of preparation for 16 weeks.

The cork centre was introduced in 1910, when experiments showed that a centre entirely of rubber tended to a "dead" ball, introduced in the league games without the knowledge of the players, the new ball immediately resulted in an improved and more interesting standard.

Fielding experiments showing that the new ball was truer, when thrown, than the sphere previously in use.

12 VALUABLE RACE
HORSES DIE IN FIRE

GREENS FARMS, Conn., June 6.—Twelve high bred show and race horses, valued at $100,000, the property of Edward T. Bedford, New York City, were burned to death yesterday at Bedford estate, Wintmore farm.

Among the horses burned was the 3-year-old Pleasant. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Mr. Bedford said, and when it was discovered about 4:30, it was too late to get the horses out of the blazing stable. A blacksmith shop and a carriage house, adjoining the stables, and some of the track buildings on the farm, also were destroyed.

FLETCHERS DEFEAT
BROADWAY A. C.

The following account of a game on the North common yesterday afternoon was received by the Sun today: Sporting Editor, Lowell Sun.—In a one-sided game Sunday afternoon on the North common, the Fletchers earned the right to be called the logical representative of the "Acres" by defeating the Broadway A. C. by the score of 19 to 4, battling three pitchers all over the common, namely: Scully, Farwell and Targion. When the Broadway saw they were hopelessly beaten, they started to make a comedy out of it by sticking in such men as Tom Ed Smith and a few more of the old timers, and when they did, Captain Fitzgerald of the Fletchers, in justice to the large crowd present, pulled his team from the field. The Fletcher team was formerly known as the Jolly Campers. The Broadway, however, their strongest lineup as they wished to be in trim for the season.

"I could not walk for twenty minutes without suffering terrible pain and had given up hopes of getting any benefit when one day I read of CINOT, the wonder medicine, and decided to try it and am glad I did, as I felt its soothing influence at once."

"After the third week I felt so well that I decided I would try a walk from Lawrence, and would you believe it, I made the whole distance without a pain or an ache."

MAKES FORTUNE AT SCENARIOS

She hasn't reached the age of 25. She had never written anything in particular before. And yet Carol Kapleau, the young lady shown at the typewriter in the above picture, is declared to have made $35,000 writing scenarios last year. Not in "press agent" money, but coin of the realm. Miss Kaplan is one of the hardest working writers for the screen in the Los Angeles film colony—as well as one of the most popular with scenario editors. The picture shows her talking over a screen story with Helen Jerome Luddy, popular screen actress. "It's just a question of using your brains and desiring to succeed," declares Miss Kapleau. "If a girl wishes to write she should try to get a slice of life down on paper. But it takes lots of work and grim determination."

Long-Awaited Repairs in First Street Now Underway—Street Dept. Lays Tar-Bound Macadam

STREET DEPARTMENT MEN PUTTING FIRST STREET INTO SHAPE

Automobilists of Lowell and surrounding towns as well as those from other cities who have occasion to make frequent use of First street as part of the Lowell-Lawrence highway are halting with delight the news that work is actually under way to put First street into passable condition. A new tar-bound macadam roadway is being laid by employees of the street department and 150 feet of it has already been completed.

The new road will extend from Simpson street to a point 150 feet beyond Christian street and when completed will be 4172 feet long with an average width of 18 feet. The total yardage will be 8341 square yards.

At first it was contemplated extending the new macadam road to the Draught line, but inasmuch as the state has taken over the road from a point near Christian street to Draught as part of the proposed new river highway, the city authorities feel it is up to the state to macadamize its part of the road. Negotiations are now under way with the state authorities to have them do their part of the work.

WOMEN RESCUED AT HOSPITAL FIRE

Ten inmates, including two mothers with new born babes, carried to safety

Nurses Do Heroic Rescue
Work at Newburyport
Homeopathic Hospital

NEWBURYPORT, June 6.—Ten hospital inmates, including two mothers with new-born babes, were rescued by nurses during a fire at the Homeopathic hospital on Fifth street today. Several of the patients were taken down fire escapes. All escaped uninjured and were removed to the Anna Jacques hospital a short distance away. The work of rescue was directed by Superintendent Winifred Roy.

The fire was discovered by a nurse in the maternity ward on the third floor. She gave the alarm and then, with the assistance of other nurses, carried the two mothers and their children down stairs.

Other nurses, meanwhile, had gone to the various wards and private rooms on the first and second floors and assisted other patients to prepare to leave the building. In most cases there was opportunity to get out by the stairways.

Assisting Superintendent Roy in the rescue work were Miss Anna Stevens, Mrs. M. A. Paine, Mrs. Louise Sargent Earle and Miss Fox, all of the nursing staff.

The fire burned for more than two hours and seriously damaged the hospital, a brick structure.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The Chandler Motor Co., today declared a quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share. This is a reduction in the annual rate from $10 to $5.

HORSES HAD HIGH JINKS

Superior Court Suit to Recover Damages for Results of Equine Prancing

Horses that fox-trotted, two-stepped, and otherwise cut-up high jinks, furnished the motive for the story unfolded today before Judge Franklin T. Hammond and a jury in the superior court. As the tale of equine ebullience was told it was brought out that one of the animals involved in the fantastic performance has a long memory and, after nearly a year has passed, cannot even be brought to approach the vicinity of his former dildos.

The story of wandering from the straight and narrow path of equine docility and patient service was brought out during the trial of a suit of Wilfred Jean, operating a laundry in Market street, vs. Favreau Brothers, electricians.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendants, as a result of defective work in connecting electric wires with a gasoline pump in front of 125 Paige street, the ground in Pollard avenue became charged with current and caused a horse to do some high-stepping and run away July 29, 1920. Compensation is asked for damages to a wagon, which, it is claimed, was wrecked, a harness practically destroyed, and permanent injuries to the animal. The ad damnum named in the writ is $1600.

In his declaration the plaintiff alleges that the defendant failed to comply with an ordinance of the city of Lowell requiring that electric connections with a live wire shall be made only after the municipal inspector of wires has been notified.

Amos P. Best, proprietor of an auto accessory supply shop at 125 Paige street, near which the horse danced, told of purchasing the store in July, 1920, and of discovering the light on top of a sidewalk gasoline pump unlighted. He told of employees of the defendant working on wires connected with the light. He said that the next morning he was told of horses getting frisky. He said that he saw a man named Lachapelle place his hand on the ground where the horses had kicked up their heels and that Lachapelle jumped and said "Look out or you'll get a shock."

JANITOR MEETS SUDDEN DEATH

Michael J. Lynch, Head Janitor at High School, Killed Today

Fell From Roof to Basement
In New High School Building

Mystery, that it is believed may never be solved, surrounds the death of Michael J. Lynch, high school janitor, whose lifeless body was found at 1.45 p. m. today on the gravel floor of the basement room of the new high school building at the corner of Kirk and French streets. The body was discovered by John P. Devine, 16 Crescent avenue, Dorchester, an employee of the firm which is putting steam-heating apparatus in the building.

The body was found lying on its side facing Kirk street. The head was badly battered and lay in a large pool of blood. A few feet away was a small sum of money, and in another direction a lot of pencils, which had evidently fallen from the dead man's pockets.

As soon as the body was discovered the police were notified and the injured man was taken to St. John's hospital. On arrival at the hospital it was announced that the man was dead.

It is believed that he was killed instantly by his fall. The body was turned over to Medical Examiner Smith.

The body was found very nearly in the center of the apartment at the corner of Kirk and French streets. The room is about 70 feet long by 40 feet wide.

Extending lengthwise of the roof of the room are open spaces not over two feet wide and of varying lengths which are to be used for installing ventilating and heating ducts. Similar openings directly over those in the first floor are in the two floors above.

Near the opening in the first floor above the basement were found the dead man's cap and eyeglasses. On the edge of the openings are small pieces of the hair of the deceased left there, it is believed, when his head struck the sharp concrete edge in falling.

On the second floor was found money that had apparently come from Mr. Lynch's pockets as he fell.

From these circumstances, it is believed that Mr. Lynch fell from the third floor of the building and one of the mysteries of the case is as to the reason why he should have been on the third floor by school teachers and others in recognition of 25 years' service in the school department.

The deceased lived at 10 Orford st. He leaves a wife, Mary T., and adopted son, William; and one sister, Mrs. Cornelius O'Hearn of Fourth ave.

Spectacular Arrest of Men
Wanted in Lawrence for Daylight Robbery

Local Officers With Drawn
Revolvers Stop Thieves
in Speeding Auto

Leaping with drawn revolvers to the running-board of a speeding Cadillac car approaching Merrimack square from the Centralville bridge, five Lowell police officers arrested a quartet of young Boston men charged with holding up the T. & Q. clothing shop at Lawrence, seizing 13 suits, flinging them into a waiting automobile and fleeing over the road towards this city. The arrests were made hardly half an hour after word was hastily telephoned to Lieut. Maher at headquarters, by Inspector Lanning of the Lawrence force.

All the officers on duty in the vicinity of Merrimack square were instantly notified of the theft and escape of the four men alleged to have engineered it, and within a few minutes, Officers John Mahan, espied a Cadillac car coming along Bridge street in the direction of the square. Going to the centre of the street, he ordered the driver of the machine to halt, and when the automobile had slowed down MacManus, Edward Connors, Daniel Lynch, and Frank Murphy sprang to the running board. The men, who were brought to the station house followed by an excited crowd which had witnessed the thrilling occurrence, gave their names and ages as Leo M. Dufey, a chauffeur, 22; Frank P. Carroll, chauffeur, 22; James M. Daley, steam-fitter, 18; and John P. McCarthy, cooper, 21. They all stated that they were from Boston. They were locked up in cells at the police station, after being booked to await the arrival of Lawrence officers.

According to the story that came hurriedly over the wire from the Lawrence authorities, three young men entered the T. & Q. store at Lawrence, and while one drew the clerk on duty Continued to Page Ten

ADD NEW MEMBERS TO NATIONAL FAMILY

About 150 new members were added to Uncle Sam's family at a session of the superior court today, for passing upon applications for final citizenship papers. Judge Charles U. Bell was on the bench and Assistant Clerk Ralph H. Smith administered the oath in which all allegiance to foreign princes, potentates and powers was renounced. The largest percentage of the new citizens came from among the subjects of King George of England.

More than the usual formality attached to initiating applicants into citizenship was given by having the men, as soon as they had been examined, take seats within the bar enclosure, and after half a dozen had been passed they were asked to stand and face the black-robed judge, who also arose, while the oath was being administered.

PUEBLO, Colo., June 6.—(By the Associated Press)—After a night of quiet, Pueblo awoke this morning to find the waters in the low lying sections of the city receded to below the five foot mark and still going down. The flood was at the lowest stage since its sudden onslaught last Friday night.

PUEBLO, Colo., June 6.—Flood-stricken central Colorado today surveys the havoc of the most disastrous flood in the history of the west. An accurate estimate of the loss of life and property damage is impossible at this time. With morgues crowded to overflowing, hospitals turning patients to improvised relief stations, and thousands homeless, or suffering from exposure, every effort today was being directed toward the alleviation of suffering, leaving the work of survey, and the plans for rehabilitation for the attention of outside forces en route to the almost prostrate community.

HARDING WANTS U. S. HELPFUL TO HUMANITY

VALLEY FORGE, Penn., June 6.—A sermon of faith in established American institutions and of hope for a day of peace and good will throughout the world, was preached by President Harding yesterday from a Woodland pulpit overlooking General Washington's historic camping ground in Valley Forge.

At Memorial Chapel

The president's address was delivered from the cloister of the Washington Memorial chapel to a crowd of several thousand persons assembled under the auspices of the Valley Forge Historical society.

Just before the address he had attended service within the chapel itself, to which he and Mrs. Harding motored from the country home, here, or Senator Knox, with whom they are spending the week-end.

At the Memorial chapel, whose cornerstone was laid in 1903 by President Roosevelt, special patriotic services were held yesterday in honor of the coming of President Harding. Former service men, bearing the presidential flag and the national colors, preceded the President and Mrs. Harding up the aisle to their reserved pew. Patriotic airs were sung after the completion of the regular Protestant Episcopal service.

At the outdoor ceremonies the president was made a member of the Historical society, of which Dr. W. Herbert Burk, rector of the chapel, is president. Mr. Harding was praised in a short address by Dr. Burk as "a leader who blends religion with patriotism," and was presented with membership insignia bearing the inscription, "A token of appreciation and a pledge of loyalty."

President's Address

The conclusion of the president's address was as follows:

"This is the heritage of Valley Forge—equality of opportunity, sustained in justice, with maintained authority under law and order. This is what made America, it will lead us to future triumphs."

"I like to say to you—perhaps you like me to say it, because I am unanswerable to you for the policy of the republic—I believe I speak what is in your hearts, and in the heart of all America, when I say that we ought to have the courage, the appreciation, the resolution, the conscience and the judgment to maintain unendangered the inherited foundations of the fathers, and ever mindful of their sufferings, still play our part to humanity in the generation to come. I can think of an America that can maintain every heritage and yet help humanity throughout the world to reach a little higher plane."

"But when I pledge our America to world helpfulness, at the same time I exact the pledge that America will cling to her own independence of action and to her own conscience. 'Who can say what tomorrow has for the world? We are only a century and a half from Valley Forge, and a century and a third from the adoption of the constitution, and yet I can say without boasting that ours is a commanding position in the world today.'

Looks Into Future

"The world could never settle its present day troubles and complications without the helpfulness of American influence and example. Who shall say if we hold fast to the traditions of Valley Forge, what the future shall have in store?"

"I want an America of preserved conscience—I want an America of preserved righteousness—aye, an America of clinging to the religious devotion which has been the anchorage of our civilization."

"Who shall say if we cling to these things what we may accomplish? We are already up in the world, but the sun of our national life has not yet fairly approached its meridian; it is only morning in our national life."

"What is a century and a third in national life? It is only a snap of the finger. Who can imagine in quelling the cup of national American optimism what the future may have in store? I can well believe that long before the sun of national life has passed its meridian—I can well believe that with well maintained foundations the one hundred million of today will be the myriads of the future."

"I like to think of them all as loyal Americans with faces to the front marching on and on to achievement, clinging to their traditions, and joining in a great swelling chorus, 'Glory Be to God in the Highest, on Earth Peace, Good-will to Men.'"

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Rev. Appleton Grannis Addresses Rogers Hall Seniors at St. Anne's Church

"One of the bad features of today, is that we are mistaking liberty for license," was the declaration yesterday morning of Rev. Appleton Grannis, in preaching the baccalaureate sermon to the Rogers Hall seniors in St. Anne's church, at the morning service. Several members of the faculty, as well as members of the undergraduate classes, were among the congregation.

This is an age of transition, said the speaker, because all ages are ages of transition. But in some areas the changes materialize with notable rapidity, and today furnishes us with an instance of such phenomena. The attitude of present-day humanity towards religion, he pointed out, is duplicated in periods of the past.

"Today," he went on, "we are learning more about the infinitely great, and about the infinitely small. A scientist has found our universe to be 100 times greater than we had supposed. And in this country, dwelling as we are in the aftermath of the most terrible war the world has ever known, strife seems never ending between capital and labor, and there has been granted to one-half of the nation an opportunity to take part in these great questions that affect us all so strongly."

The idea of God, he declared, must be invoked to explain what we witness in the world. "The world," he said, "is permeated with intelligence. Only as we find nature in harmony with this intelligence, can we come to know and understand this great world in which we live."

"Those things that cannot be shaken," he said, "are the great moral laws of the universe that have endured and will always endure. You cannot break them. They will break you, unless you live in harmony with them. This is as true today as it has been through all the ages."

"We are building character day by day. Every act makes an impression. Believe in God? Believe in our own character? Yes. Also, we have not to take other lives into account in order that our own lives may be richly molded. The self-centered life is a narrow life. To you, this is a difficult person is the essentially selfish man or woman. Remember this: The true Christian man or woman is the man or woman who, in dealing with others, makes those others feel for themselves greater respect. Because you possess more than others possess, is no reason why you should go about making those others feel that they are inferior. You cannot treat others in a disdainful way without reaping the consequences."

"This world is full of good things—things that are inspiring. But the most beautiful thing that this world has ever known is in the life that is lived by Jesus 1900 years ago. It is that life in its beauty that we can cling to with absolute assurance."

THINGS ARE LOOKING

BRIGHTER HERE

Lowell is gradually breaking away from the industrial depression which overtook her last fall, according to the monthly employment report of the United States employment service bureau. These figures, issued on the month of May, a copy of which was received today by the chamber of commerce.

There was an increase of 3.9 per cent in employment in Lowell in the month of May as compared with April, according to the figures. A total of 436 more people were working here in May than in the preceding month. These figures are based on reports from firms which employ more than 500 persons.

Lowell showed a greater increase than Lawrence, where there was only a 2.5 per cent increase noted. However, New Bedford did a little better than Lowell, per percentage of increase being 8.6 per cent. Boston and Brockton both suffered least during the month, while Fall River, Springfield and Worcester were among the other Massachusetts cities, that showed an increase.

FIRE IN AUTOMOBILE
An automobile owned by Fred Pilling, of 217 Wilder street, caught fire near his home shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. A telephone alarm was sent in and the firemen put out the blaze before any serious damage was caused. At 12:26 o'clock last night a still alarm was sent in for a slight blaze on the Allen street bridge.

LUXATED IRON
helps make rich, red blood and revitalize weak nerves

YOU MAY BE A BETTER MAN AT 45, THAN THE YOUTH OF 25

If you keep your blood rich in iron to give you plenty of "stay there" strength and endurance.

In an account of a severe mountain climbing test, a New York newspaper states that 20 per cent of those who accomplished the feat were 44 years and over. It is therefore shown that you may be a better man at 45 than the husky strapping of 25 if you take care of yourself and keep your blood filled with iron. Prize fighters, wrestlers and athletes have learned the value of plenty of plain, coarse foods in their training, as such a diet helps supply their blood with iron. Nature put plenty of iron in the husks of grains and the peels of vegetables to enrich your blood, but modern methods of cooking destroy all these things—hence, the alarming increase in recent years in anemia—iron starvation of the blood, with its devastating weakness, nervousness and other attendant ills. If you are not strong and well, if you lack bodily and mental vigor, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, or until in your weakened condition contract some serious disease, but take some organic iron like LUXATED IRON at once to help enrich your blood and revitalize your worn out exhausted nerves. LUXATED IRON is the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. You can even eat it if you wish. It often increases bodily and mental vigor in two weeks' time. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain satisfactory results. Beware of cheap imitations. Look for the word "LUXATED" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. At all druggists.—Adv.

THIS MAN'S FOOD

DID HIM NO GOOD

Had Good Appetite But Was Very Thin and Couldn't Gain a Pound

"It was not a sick man when I began taking Tanlac," said William McAnulty, of 124 17th st., Oakland, Cal., but for some reason or other, I had for 15 years or more, been considerably under my normal weight, and felt so much concern over the fact that I made repeated efforts to find something that would build me up to my old self again."

Mr. McAnulty has lived in Oakland nearly all his life, is a member of the real estate board, office phone, Oakland 1750, and is well-known and respected throughout the city. Mr. McAnulty further said:

"It is very evident that I could not assimilate my food properly, for I would not gain substantial meals, but in spite of all I did in the way of food and medicine I remained underweight, and could not gain a pound."

Finally, nearly a year ago, after hearing so much about Tanlac for run-down systems, I concluded to see what this medicine would do in my case. So I started taking it and kept it up to three months ago before I began taking on weight. Tanlac kept me with a fine appetite and feeling fine all the time, and when I found myself getting heavier I was very much delighted."

"I now weigh one hundred and forty-two pounds, have gained 35 pounds by taking Tanlac—which is just the right weight for a man my size and build. I could not feel better if I wanted to, for I am as healthy a person as could be found. I recommend Tanlac to anybody who wants something to build them up, and if they stick to it as I did I don't believe they will be disappointed."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass.; Shaw's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

MISSIONS TO JAPAN

Jesuit Missionary at St. Peter's Told Interesting Story of Work and Sacrifice

At St. Peter's church, yesterday, Rev. W. J. McNeill, S. J., gave an interesting account of Catholic missions in Japan. He came to appeal for aid for the purpose of building a Catholic college in Tokyo as the Japanese government has agreed to allow the erection of such a college, provided sufficient funds be available to conduct it so that it may be a creditable structure and properly sustained. It was estimated that $300,000 would be sufficient for the purpose and although this sum does not appear very large in the United States, it seems much greater as viewed from Japan.

He told of the early Catholic missions in Japan conducted by St. Francis Xavier. In 1549 he baptized 3000 people in Japan and had there a flourishing Catholic colony. He died while trying to carry the work to China. In 1650 the Dominican order established a university in the Philippines and that explains why the people of those islands are today Catholic so far as they hold any religion. They also went to China, India, Syria and other eastern nations. The speaker then described the terrible persecutions by which the original Catholic missions were stamped out. Enemies of the faith from Holland and England reached Japan and stirred up prejudice against the Catholics with the result that the most cruel kind of persecution followed. For fifty years this persecution raged. Christianity was prohibited and the missionaries were put to death. In one day 26 were crucified; others were burned to death in a slow fire and some in the northern regions were put out on frozen lakes to freeze to death. This was carried on under three rulers, and Japan was closed against the outside world until opened by Admiral Perry of the United States. Since that time various Christian denominations have established missionary houses and colleges in Japan.

The present work of the Catholic missionaries has been revised largely through the efforts of Pope Pius X and His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell. Before he became an archbishop, Fr. O'Connell was sent as an envoy of the pope to Japan and was favorably received. As a result His Holiness planned the erection of a college that may ultimately develop into a university and give degrees same as other colleges.

The speaker told of a strange incident of missionary life in Japan in recent years. A band of Japanese from a distance entered a Catholic mission and began to inquire as to the teachings of the church and whether there was a recognized spiritual head in Rome. It was found that they were Catholics whose people had maintained the old faith through the ages of persecution and came in search of missionaries of their faith.

At present there are 75,000 Catholics attending the missions, which is about one for every 500 of the population of 60,000,000.

At present the Japanese are building a great temple at Tokyo to build the names of large contributors to the foundation stone, while

38 On Trial In $1,000,000 P. O. Robbery

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 6.—Thirty-eight defendants accused of complicity in Toledo's $1,000,000 postoffice robbery went on trial today in a carefully guarded courtroom. Miss Wanda Urbaytis, named as the master mind in the theft appeared in new clothes which her sisters took to the jail last week. Father Anthony Gorek of New Chicago, Ind., also is among the defendants. The robbery took place Feb. 17, five men compelling mail truck drivers to remain impassive while they loaded the valuable sacks in an automobile and sped away. Two of the five actual robbers are at liberty.

Harding Removes U. S. District Attorney

Postal Clerks Admit Embezzlement

NEW YORK, June 6.—James E. Danlay and Ralph Rosenberg, postal clerks, today pleaded guilty in federal court to embezzling postoffice savings certificates valued at $39,000, which arresting officers charged they had gambled away on horse races. They will be sentenced Wednesday.

Substitute For Borah Amendment

GLENEAGLES, Scotland, June 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Great Britain defeated the United States in the international professional golf team match today.

A STOMACH TONIC

There is a form of indigestion called "tonic" dyspepsia. Atonic means "lack of tone." It is probably the most common form of indigestion but not much is heard about it because people are inclined to group all forms of dyspepsia as "stomach trouble."

Lack of tone in the digestive organs means that the stomach is no longer able to do its work as nature intended. The nerves that control it are weak, the glands that supply the digestive fluids are not working properly. Gas on the stomach, sour risings in the throat and constipation result. The cause of the trouble is in the blood. Stomach, nerves and glands are all dependent on the blood and when it gets thin and watery they are at once weakened. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and the first response from the stomach is a better appetite, freedom from distress after eating and an increase in ambition and energy generally. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a stomach tonic and see how your general health improves.

A diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y. Every drugstore sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Price, sixty cents per box—Adv.

Clothes
by Berton Braley

He had an opinion he wished to express,
A course he longed to apply,
Regarding such follies of feminine dress
As skirts that were narrow—and high;
Or openwork hosiery, waists that were sheer,
And shoes that were tall as to heel,
He didn't approve of such feminine gear—
A fact he was quick to reveal!

He jeered women's fashions as silly and vain,
Unhealthy, unmodest and wrong—
An attitude which he seemed bound to explain
At length and in full to the throng.
"The clothing which women are wearing," he cried,
"Was certainly made and designed
To show that there's nothing but nonsense inside
The average feminine mind!"

And while he discoursed in this eloquent way,
He freely and fully perspired,
Because, in the heat of a midsummer day,
His body was fully attired
In a thick woolen suit and a hard-bosomed shirt
And a collar as stiff as a stat,
With his feet in some pointed-toe brogans that hurt,
And his head in a black derby hat!

Auto Overturned; Aged Woman Killed

CARIBOU, Me., June 6.—Mrs. Celia Ziler, aged 70, of Fort Kent, was killed at Hamlin yesterday afternoon when an automobile driven by Charles Solomon, a Caribou merchant, was overturned. Solomon's eyes were blackened, as were those of his wife, and the latter sustained a dislocated wrist. Their three children were slightly injured. Two other occupants of the car, both women, were not hurt. Solomon turned quickly to avoid a collision with another automobile and with his view shut off by a cloud of dust, he left the road. The car was wrecked.

To Arbitrate Reparation Question

PARIS, June 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The reparations commission has proposed to the council of ambassadors that the commission be authorized to refer to a neutral arbitrator questions upon which it is unable to agree. The proposal has provoked considerable criticism in French quarters. The peace treaty provides that the commission may refer questions of procedure to a neutral arbitrator, but does not mention arbitration on questions of policy.

BADLY INJURED IN FALL
FROM ROLLER COASTER

Christian Gunther, aged 20 years, and residing in Dracut, is in a serious condition at the Lowell Corporation hospital as a result of an accident, which occurred Saturday night at Lakeview park. The young man is suffering from internal injuries and it is feared that he will not recover, although today's reports were to the effect that he is resting more comfortably than he did yesterday.

As far as could be learned Gunther was enjoying a ride on the roller coasters and when the top run was reached he stood up and attempted to push on his coat. He jerked to one side and lost his balance, falling over the seat, folding to the ground. He was picked up unconscious and rushed to the hospital.

CITY LEAGUE GAME

The St. Columbas' baseball nine showed their old time form Sunday by defeating the first Union 12, in a 12-inning contest. The Union A.C. proved to be a wacky team in the 10th and 11th innings when the St. Columbas piled the sacks. The St. Columbas scored 10 runs in the 10th and 11th, while the Union scored the winning run in the last of the 11th.

The feature of the game was the pitcher, St. Columbas' star, who allowed only 3 hits, issued two passes and struck out 12 men. The Union team used three pitchers, each pitching the overtime innings. The score was 14 to 3.

Saw Many Swept to Death

waters and the flood lapped at the coach steps and began rising rapidly. "It was soon rushing through the car. Some of us went up and down in the cars quieting the passengers, many of whom were screaming and moaning and praying."

"A young girl was sitting in her seat crying. I stopped to reassure and comfort her. She said she was from Chicago and sobbingly called out: 'Daddy, daddy.' I told her we would look after her and it cheered her. But—well, I saw her swept away as the water rushed into the coaches and carried us out through windows and doors."

"An old lady sat in her seat, smiling. Just before the water flooded in on us. She declared that if it were her time to go she was prepared, and kept on smiling. I reckon she died in her seat. I saw a young man sitting in an upper berth with his mother consoling him. She was praying."

"In the water we clung to the coaches of the train which were swaying back and forth with the waves and striking the coaches of the Missouri Pacific train."

"Screams and cries of anguish rose. I saw some people go to their deaths crushed between the two trains. A great pile of lumber came rushing down upon us, sweeping over us, striking some of those clutching there with precarious hold on the cars. They were torn loose and went floating down to death. I saw a man break his way through the top of a coach only to be washed down in the flood."

"On either side of us houses and barns and other buildings were swirling down. Many people were clinging to them. I saw two men on the top of a house. The structure struck the bridge and crumbled like an egg shell. I saw their white hands a moment on the water."

"Morning came. The waters had been receding. Those of us who were left—about 50—were able to reach the ground and walk around in water above our knees."

"Some of the unconscious women and children were left in the dark. It was a scene of devastation and death. It was awful."

"I cannot say what the loss might be. I know it must be far over a hundred lives. For at least that many I am sure, were lost off our train and the Missouri Pacific train, though more from the last named train were found alive."

Worst Flood in History

approach to normal conditions is a matter of weeks. Levees must be repaired before the business section can be cleared of water.

All Dams Already Gone

It seemed early today that all danger of a repetition of the flood in Pueblo had passed, barring another cloudburst. Every dam on either the Arkansas or Fountain rivers from which danger might be expected, was already gone.

The local Red Cross placed the number of bodies found at approximately 100, basing its estimate on reports of personal investigation of the devastated area.

The number of persons in temporary hospitals was placed at 500 by J. E. Morehead, secretary of Governor Shoup. Typhoid, pneumonia, diphtheria and one or two cases of insanity were found among these patients.

A complete field hospital unit from Fort Logan was expected to reach here today.

May Appeal to Washington

At a conference early today of military, city and state officials in which Governor Shoup took part, repair of the levees was decided upon as one of the first problems to be met. It was considered possible that aid of the federal government would be sought.

Floods of lesser magnitude were reported early today by several towns in Kansas. All are along the course of the Arkansas river, which overflowed its banks here. Syracuse and Gardner, Kas., have reported sweeping floods, and all towns in the Arkansas valley have been warned of the rising river.

Las Animas, Colo., early today reported the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe shops at La Junta under five feet of water, the railroad yards wrecked, and 200 freight cars swept away. A score of lives were believed to have been lost. Two hundred residences in Las Animas went under three feet of water late last night. Inhabitants fled to public buildings and to the highlands fearing the residence section would be swept away.

Flood at Denver

The Platte river broke its banks at Denver, shortly after midnight inundating several blocks of the west side residential section, from which people fled their homes, taking refuge in the city hall. Red Cross stations cared for the homeless. Last reports from Denver early today said that the river was within one foot of the bridge structures in the business section and still rising.

Three times yesterday came a renewal of the flood here. At 4 o'clock in the morning, water rose several feet when the crest of the flood from the breaking of the Stratton park dam near Colorado Springs, reached Pueblo. In the middle of the afternoon, breaking of the Skagway reservoir and Beaver dam near Victor, coupled with a heavy downpour of rain in the Arkansas river watershed, and in Pueblo caused another rise. Again last night, followed another heavy rainstorm. In none of the floods of yesterday did the waters reach the level of Friday night.

The washout of railway line leading to the stricken area, created menacing situation to be overcome today. Food supplies in Pueblo were estimated by Red Cross officials as being less than sufficient for three days. Roads to the city are impassable for miles around. The only drinking water available today was from a spring on a hill at the outskirts of the city.

Downpour All Night

A heavy downpour of rain continued all through last night and the early morning. Military patrols were handicapped by the impassable streets, pitch darkness—the city's electric service station having been out of commission since early Friday morning—and the unrelenting downpour.

All persons have been kept from the streets since Saturday evening. Looking has been held to a minimum. No one is permitted to enter the city except the military, Red Cross workers and state and other officials.

With the restoration of telegraphic communication yesterday the suffering community learned of relief measures undertaken by cities throughout the middle west.

Relief Measures

A supply of coats, blankets, lanterns, candles and sweaters arrived yesterday from the Red Cross in Colorado Springs. Col. F. J. Pierce, in charge of the Red Cross, said that so far he had been able to feed and clothe every person applying for aid.

Hundreds of persons applied to the Red Cross for food, clothing and medical relief. A canteen supplied the food. A carload of beef was commandeered from the railroad yards and cooked to prevent its spoiling.

Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis and other large cities closest to the flood area have offered material aid immediately, but are unable to get their offerings to the community because of the demoralized transportation conditions.

Doctors and Undertakers Arrive

The basement of every building in the downtown section is filled with water and mud. Windows of basements were crushed in by the flood and military officials say that bodies may be found here weeks later, when it has been possible to pump out the basements and shovel out the mud. Fourteen doctors and 25 nurses have arrived from Colorado Springs. Fifteen embalmers arrived from Denver and 16 from Colorado Springs.

All the levees were washed out in the flood and restoration of the river to its natural bed presents an engineering problem of magnitude.

In the vicinity of the state hospital, the nearest the correspondent could approach to the natural bed of the river, was half a mile. Parts of the railroad yards there had been washed away and the river had established a new channel, virtually covering the entire section of bottoms known as the Grove.

KANSAS PEOPLE FLEE TO ESCAPE FLOODS

TOPEKA, Kas., June 6.—The first wave of the Arkansas river flood today was sweeping down from Eastern Colorado up to Kansas. The river at Syracuse was bank-full at nightfall last night and rising rapidly. Farmers and ranchmen living in the bottoms moved their stock to the highlands. Men on horseback are patrolling the river west of Syracuse, warning the people to flee.

The Amity dam, five miles west of the city, is reported to have given way. The telephone operator reports the town of Amity completely washed away with a possible loss of life.

Four Reported Lost

Four persons who were detailed to keep driftwood from the piers of a wagon bridge, are reported to have gone down with the bridge into the main current of the river.

The Santa Fe railway notified the communities on its line in the Arkansas valley of Kansas, that the rush of Colorado floodwater had crossed the state line and local representatives of the company were instructed to be prepared for any emergency.

"The warning has been ample, and there need be no loss of life in Kansas," said F. C. Fox, general manager of the Santa Fe. The Santa Fe will co-operate with the communities along its line to keep the property loss down to the minimum."

The road issued an embargo against the flooded district, applicable to live stock and perishable freight. People of Dodge City, Kas., figured that the flood crest would reach that locality shortly after noon today. Heavy rains were reported west of Dodge City.

peppery story of a city snarrows whose borrowed sage brought adventure.

A Cabinet chair is to be furnished and presented to President Harding from the wreck of the old American warship Revenge, sunk by the British in Lake Champlain, October 11, 1776. The skeleton of the old vessel lies on the shore of the lake at Ticonderoga, having been dragged out of the mud twelve years ago.

THE VOTERS NOT TO BLAME
It is to be hoped that the voters of Lowell will from this time forward devote some serious thought to the provisions of the new city charter. In some quarters, it is alleged that it makes very little difference what kind of a charter we have, as the electorates will never select the right kind of officials under any circumstances. It is true that we shall never have ideal men. There is too much to expect, but when the system of government makes the selection of good men very difficult, it should be adjusted as soon as possible. That is the main fault to be urged against the present charter. It is wrong in principle, wrong in plan, wrong in practically every innovation that it foisted upon the cities that adopted it.

The electorate is not responsible for the fact that men are chosen without regard to qualification for positions requiring technical knowledge and long experience, nor is the electorate responsible for the fact that business men whose experience would be of great value to the city, refuse to mix in the mud-slinging battles waged to secure the privilege of drawing the salaries paid under the present charter for a commission. The electorate is just as good today as it ever was, but it hasn't a chance under the present charter. Every man who enters that contest, however honest and sincere, is sure to be misrepresented by corrupt politicians, who buy the privilege of getting up on the street corners and making false charges to delude the voters. It would appear that the experience we have had under the present city charter, should teach the voters the necessity of adopting a new law that will allow every part of the city to elect its representatives to the municipal council, and that will put men in charge of the municipal departments who are competent and then hold them responsible for results. There is no other way of getting the city's business transacted in a proper manner.

The new charter is very much like the one that was abandoned over ten years ago, with the exception that instead of two branches in the municipal council there is but one; but the functions are practically the same and the cause of deadlocks is removed. There is sufficient time from now until October to study the new charter and to ascertain just what its provisions are. It has been misrepresented in many ways and for this reason The Sun is giving space to articles calculated to enlighten the public upon its main provisions, so that when the special election comes, the voters may be able to act intelligently in regard to the entire question.

THE BUILDING SHORTAGE
Everybody agrees that the country is suffering from a great building shortage. Everybody agrees that there is something radically wrong somewhere, when the great need for buildings of all kinds cannot be met although there are millions of men unemployed. When it comes to fixing the blame for this ridiculous condition of things, there seems to be very great difference of opinion.

Some charge it to the high price of steel; some to the high prices of other building materials; others to the high wages demanded by labor. Every fellow wants the other fellow to "liquorate" and is quite sure that if he would do so there would be an immediate building boom.

The employers and material men are beginning to quarrel among themselves as to which class among them is the greatest profiteer. The steel men have finally turned on the other material fellows, and have given out some very interesting figures. They show that on May 1, this year, structural steel prices showed an advance over May, 1919, of 43 per cent. Brick in the same period showed an advance of 165 per cent. Lime 205 per cent, and cement 95 per cent.

The employees in the building trades, who are disinclined to have their wages drastically deflated, seem to have nothing on these building material chaps. The 43 per cent steel increase is not so much out of line, everything considered. But advances ranging from 56 to 205 per cent make the so-called labor profiteers look like pikers.

Very properly the Boston News Bureau, a leading financial daily, asks: "Has there been deflation-dodging in building materials as well as in building trades labor?" As a few of the material men hold up prices, so a few of the building trades refuse to lower wages. The combination holds back building operations and keeps many men in idleness who would otherwise be profitably employed.—N.E.A.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK BRIGHTER
Within the past few weeks, there have been indications of a gradual improvement in the textile industry. There is a more definite approach to stabilization, which, if continued, will mean better business, although the prospect for the next two months does not promise any very great change. In the wholesale and retail trade there has been some recession, although more marked in the former than the latter. The month of May falls between the spring and summer seasons and is, therefore, not usually marked by normal production. In some industries there was a decline due mainly to this international lull. With the opening of the present month there is evident a greater spirit of optimism, which will probably have more substantial support as the season advances.

It is announced that the American Woolen Company is running 99 per cent capacity and that it will be able to continue this pace into the mid-summer. The manufacturers in cotton and woolen mills alike are endeavoring to hold as many as possible of their employees and to divide up the work as fairly as possible in the hope that an early improvement will enable them to provide for all. The manufacturer who is able to keep running without making any profit or paying any dividends, may consider himself fortunate in not having been driven to the wall.

ANOTHER AUTO FATALITY
That was a most unfortunate accident in which Theodore Boylston, a student of the Textile School, lost his life. It was somewhat similar to the accident in which Wilfrid Cognac was killed and several others, including Commissioner Salmon, injured. The big motor truck is a serious menace on the highways, but when it is encountered on the road at night without sufficient lights in front and rear, it is doubly dangerous. Ordinarily, it obstructs the view of cars approaching in either direction, so that motorists should adopt a new rule, providing that when a motor truck is slightly moving or at rest, it is time to pull up and go very slowly until the truck has been passed. In both the accidents referred to there is little doubt that if the automobiles in which the injured parties were riding, had not been going at a high rate of speed, they might have been halted in time to avoid collision. Night-driving is very dangerous business and fast driving at night is immeasurably more dangerous than in the daytime. It seems that automobile drivers do not learn from the experience of others. Each seems to think that he can safely take the risks that resulted in collisions and injuries to others. The usual result follows and the number of serious accidents is amazingly multiplied.

THE NEW IMMIGRATION LAW
The transatlantic lines are likely to have to take back to Europe a considerable number of the immigrants now on their way to this country. According to the provisions of the new law, the number of immigrants of any nationality privileged to come here is limited to 2 per cent of the total number of that nationality already here as shown by the census of 1910.

The quota for the Italians is limited to 300 for the month of June; but it is alleged that the Canopio of the White Star line, expected to arrive here Tuesday, has on board 1200 Italians. Under the restrictions imposed by the new law, the number of immigrants who may enter the United States in June includes only 3,000 from Italy, 5,923 from the British Isles, 5,213 from Germany, 2,627 from Russia, 1,095 from Czechoslovakia, 1,531 from Sweden, and 177 from Portugal. Possibly the authorities may allow the Canopio passengers to remain and deduct the excess from the totals permissible for the ensuing months.

Evidently there would be a great influx of immigrants from Europe this year, but for the restrictions imposed by this new law. The only other factor will be the difficulty of intending immigrants may encounter in securing the passage money. This in most cases will be sent by relatives in this country.

AGRICULTURAL CONDITIONS
Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has issued an appeal to attention to agriculture. Industrial and mercantile interests, he says, should give all possible aid to the eastern farmers so that they may be able to build up a more stable and self-sufficient agriculture. It is a fact that the importance of the agricultural industry is not fully appreciated in the east. Agriculture, when properly conducted, is a profitable industry; but just at present it is suffering from the business depression. The prospects of good crops and fair prices this season, however, are fairly encouraging and in another year or two, the farmers of the eastern states will have fully recovered from the reverses suffered during the last two years.

The Boston Globe tells us that "foreign names generally were missing" from a jury list. In view of the fact that all the names on jury lists are those of citizens, perhaps the Globe can tell us just what "foreign" names are.

"I want a drink o' whiskey," said a man walking up to a Lawrence police inspector. Of course no Lowell policeman would know where to direct a similar seeker to find a thirst-quenching source.

Here is a pertinent paragraph plucked from the news that is worth thinking about: "The Boston Finance commission reports that street work done by the city is generally inferior to that done by contractors."

SEEN AND HEARD

Getting Kind Feet
No lawyer should undertake to address a jury after he reaches 65 years of age, says Thomas F. Mellow, former special judge and one of the most successful criminal lawyers in South Carolina. Mellow is now 61 years of age and has been practicing law for more than 39 years. "I watched it all my life," says Mellow, "and 65 a lawyer's words don't make the impression on a jury that a younger man's do. I am good for about five years more. After that nothing but office practice for me."

The Power of the Press
Senior V. Ponce Ponce, a Spanish novelist, believes in his profession and declares (in the Times Book Review) that "without any doubt whatever, the novel is the most important and characteristic literary manifestation of modern life." But no, Senior, the most important literary manifestation of modern life is the newspaper. This world could get along without novels better than you may think, but without newspapers grass would grow in the streets and skin raiment would come back into fashion.—L. S. Martin in Life.

Doesn't Like Andover
A North Andover subscriber has recently purchased a pig. To all outward appearances this pig is a perfectly normal young animal but he certainly has an abnormal taste for running away. The other day his mistress heard the Salem car making a terrific amount of tooting and she ran to the door to see what the trouble would be. It was nothing less than her own little pig on the track. Said little pig would not budge for several minutes but when she approached he ran. Before he was finally caught several machines had been lined by the roadside—some of the occupants of which were just looking on, others taking part in the chase and the rest scared for fear they would run over him. The pig was thereupon made doubly secure but even then the little fellow escaped and called on one of the neighbors and set up such a squealing when they tried to get him that half the neighborhood, I guess, appeared to see what dreadful thing could be happening to the poor little pig.—Lawrence Telegram.

Gardening
Now Gladys takes her trowel and puts on her garden gloves. And kisses her to the flowerbed, to do which she is in attitude of prayer, and gently stirs the soil. And plants the seeds in little rows, with ever patient toil. And as the plants I almost think she breathes a little prayer That kindly Nature will reward her watchful, tender care.

And when the little plants come up, O how her heart does bound! She gives her thanks to Nature and the richness in the ground. She waters the sproutlets tenderly, and watches how they grow, And how her heart rejoices when the buds begin to show!

For Gladys when the little plants, that grow from little seeds, And, truth to tell, I almost think she almost loves the weeds!

MAN ABOUT TOWN

It would be a good idea if all the building crafts would get together and agree upon a policy that would encourage proprietors to start building enterprises. Some of the crafts have cut wages as deeply as they could afford, but one or two others hold to the old figure. I am informed that most building materials are now selling at reasonable prices. There should be some general policy and some all around agreement that would help to get up a building boom in Lowell before the season wanes.

Here is an item from a Boston paper that will interest everybody who is familiar with the habits of squirrels:

The plight of the five young gray squirrels found recently in the Old Granary burying ground with their tails tied together is not the cruel trick of some human being, but that the mother squirrel herself, according to P. S. Wilbur of Lake Pleasant. The mother squirrel ties the tails of the young to keep them from falling out of their nest that is usually high up among the tree branches, he says. You will find that the old mother squirrel is responsible for their condition to keep them from falling. Mr. Wilbur writes, I have found two similar cases in the last two years, one of three and one of four squirrels tied together.

Most people will wonder how the squirrel ties the knot and whether it unties or leaves the little fellows to wriggle out of the entanglement.

Beware of the egg man! Twice within a few days residents of Port Hill avenue and Huntington street have been taken in by this egg peddler. His scheme is to choose a house whose occupants are out in the evening and he goes to the next house and says that the lady of the house where there is an egg has ordered two and some times three dozen fresh eggs from the country and would they not take them for her, always asking the highest market price. Of course the obliging neighbor comes across with the cash. The eggs on examination are not any too fresh.

VIEWS OF RESTORING PARITY IN EXCHANGE WITH EUROPE

Col. Knox Feels Direct Tax Necessary in France--Nations Slow to Adopt Fiscal Policies--France Meeting the Crisis

(Special to The Sun.)
PARIS, June 6.—All Europe suffers from the same malady that afflicted the United States, following the Civil war—unlimited expansion in the issuance of paper money. Financial health will not be restored to Europe until the same remedy is applied—resumption of specie payments. And Europe, particularly France, cannot resume specie payments until the French people are ready themselves to be taxed to a sufficient degree so that the French treasury can be put into condition which warrants resumption.

There are two curious qualities in the French attitude toward the fiscal side of his government. He will not tolerate a government which proposes direct taxation as a remedy for lack of funds in the treasury, and he is practically without conscience when it comes to avoidance of any tax, whether direct or indirect. Now it is a moral certainty that France will have to resort to, not only direct, but heavy direct, taxation before there can be any restoration of health and stability to French national finance. But while, so I am told, French officials who direct the fiscal affairs of the country, privately admit that the French people must pay far heavier taxes, publicly they play with the idea that German reparations can be made to take the place of taxes to pay for the war, and with the even more remote possibility that ultimately the United States and Great Britain will cancel the debts which France incurred during the progress of hostilities.

In both of these expectations France rides to a fall, she is building the most unsubstantial of castles in Spain. Even with Germany yielding without reservation to the terms of the London allied conference agreement, there is no warrant for the hope that French fiscal needs will be met in this quarter. And while both the United States and Great Britain may entertain the suggestion that payments of interest be long deferred, neither country is at all likely to be sympathetic to any suggestion looking to complete cancellation of the principal sum of the debt owed them.

Direct Tax Necessary in France
There is but one way in which France can recover her pre-war financial strength, but one way in which she can restore her franc to parity with the dollar and yardstick, and that is—to tax herself. Even the huge and critical needs of wartime finance did not suffice to overcome the Frenchman's prejudice against paying taxes. France financed her war necessities by bond issues, both domestic and foreign, which, of course, meant merely postponing the day of reckoning. Today, despite the desperate condition of the government financially, the latter has not summoned the courage to tax adequately. Measured by present American standards of post-war taxation, the Frenchman pays about seventy per cent of the amount the American pays. And America is governmentally affluent, while France is impoverished to the degree that is so stupendous that the Briand government literally has not dared to make an accurate accounting and tell the people exactly where their government stands.

Now the people of the United States have a very acute interest in the restoration of financial normalcy in France, and in all of continental Europe. At the present time the United States is the only nation in the world among the great powers which is on a gold basis. Great Britain is steadily fighting her way back, is sure to get back to a gold standard, and for the purpose of this discussion can be ignored. Because we are on a gold basis and all of Europe is on a paper money basis, our dollar is at a tremendous premium. This so great disparity has operated to practically close the doors of European trade to our manufacturers just when American goods were badly needed abroad and our export business alone could save our domestic industry from indefinite curtailment.

Buying Heavily Abroad
There are two possible ways in which they can bring about a change, can remove the barrier which disparity in exchange has erected. One is to buy heavily abroad and pay for our purchases in gold. But such a policy would leave American mills and factories idle, and American workmen unemployed. Your idealistic, free-trader of the college cloister type would heartily endorse such a plan bringing to bear his theoretical argument in support of free and untrammelled exchange of commodities between nations as a sure corrective for such a situation as that which confronts us. But, happily, American economic policies are under the control of more practical men who assess the value of the domestic market highly, and who do not propose, if they can help it to achieve parity of conditions by bringing conditions in America down to the level of conditions abroad. Nothing is more certain, politically, than the early enactment of a protective tariff law which eliminates the possibility of a restoration of parity in exchange by the process of importing foreign-made goods upon an expansive scale and paying for such purchases in gold.

The only remaining alternative, as a means of restoring parity in exchange, is the widespread investment of American money in foreign securities, such investments to be covered by shipments of gold. This method would be ideal from the selfish American standpoint. It would serve promptly to bring about parity in exchange, because it would check the flow of gold westward and start the resumption, and it would lead to American manufacturing and production of their domestic market unimpaired. Nay, it would do more. If American money modernized and rehabilitated European public utilities, railroads and industries, such concerns would naturally buy much of their requisite new machinery and equipment in the United States and our export trade would be immeasurably improved. It was exactly this policy which built up the great overseas trade of Great Britain, and although the British have domestic problems aplenty, it is significant that British capital is already being employed in precisely this manner.

The Chief Obstacle
The sole obstacle to recourse to this expedient is found in the illatitudes in getting their fiscal policies straightened out. One of the managers of a big American trust company, with a Paris branch, told me today that he would hesitate to recommend American investment in French industrial securities until France seriously faced her financial problem and set upon the method which she would apply to meet the situation. This may take the form of largely increasing the present sales, or turnover tax, or a heavy capital tax, or a possible arbitrary reduction in the value of outstanding paper money to one-half its present nominal value. Until this question is settled American investment in French private enterprises must wait. When it is settled American investment in France will probably take on sizable proportions. Hence the acute interest which I believe American bankers and business men ought to take in French progress toward financial stability. If the world has acquired any world-wide sense, as I believe it has, it is certain that France will always meet successfully each successive crisis with which she is confronted. She is sure to meet satisfactorily the very real one which she faces today.

LOWELL PEOPLE ATTEND

Cardinal Lays Corner Stone at
Cambridge—Pays Tribute
to French Catholics

BOSTON, June 6.—About 10,000 people, many of them French Catholics from various parts of the state, participated yesterday in the ceremonies carried out at the laying of the corner stone of the Church of Notre Dame de Pitte, located on Rindge avenue, North Cambridge.

Cardinal O'Connell officiated. The Rev. J. F. Suller, S.M., rector of the Church of Our Lady of Victories, Isabelle street, this city, who delivered the oration of the day in French, told the cardinal of the loyalty and good wishes of the French Catholic population. The cardinal was accompanied by the Rev. Richard J. Haberlin, his secretary.

Nearly 5000 men, women and children, most of them of the parish and many from Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Springfield, Holyoke, Waltham, Watertown and other parts of the state, marched through the streets of North Cambridge, from the church building now in use in Harvey street to the new location in Rindge avenue, two bands furnishing music.

Priests from every parish in Cambridge and from other cities took part in the exercises.

Veterans of the world war, carrying the Stars and Stripes and the French tricolor, as well as the state flag, had a place in the line of the procession and took a position of honor at the ceremony.

Joseph Flammund, French consul; Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, and other officials were present.

Just before the laying of the stone, Cardinal O'Connell, accompanied by the Rev. Adolphe Rabel, S.M., pastor of the parish, and the priests who participated, proceeded to the interior of the church structure, where prayers were read.

After the cardinal had officiated at the ceremony of the laying of the stone, he spoke in part as follows: "Let me say, and I am happy to take this occasion to say it, that this fraternal union and charity, as it concerns the relations between this parish and your people and the head of this diocese, are well nigh perfect. Let me say in all frankness, and I am happy and proud to say it, that the French-Canadian people, the Catholics who speak the French language, in this archdiocese, are among its very first in fidelity to the faith, in generosity to good works and in their unity with the head of the diocese."

"Again let me repeat since my advent here as your archbishop I have never had one disagreeable moment, either from the French-Canadian people, or from the French-Canadian priests of this diocese, but I have had many of number of consolations and satisfactions."

"Therefore, to come here and be with you today is my pleasure and my privilege, and I want you to interpret my presence here today as being a sign of our mutual affection."

"To you, Father Rabel, and to your associates of the parish, I wish to say in this parish, let me offer my most sincere and cordial congratulations. From the beginning the work of the parish fathers in this diocese has been admirable. It has been characterized by prudence and complete unity with the authority of the diocese."

"With such priests to guide them, it is no wonder that the good people of this parish have manifested their devotion, their co-operation and their wonderful generosity. When one thinks that in four short years, Father Rabel tells me, he has been able to gather among you over $30,000 for the building of this church, from people among whose very contribution means a personal sacrifice, this in itself is a wonderful indication of your faith and of your charity."

PASTOR BABCOCK GETS A DIVINITY DEGREE

The announcement was made at the morning service in the First Baptist church yesterday that the pastor of the church, Rev. Edw. Babcock, will in the future be entitled to place the abbreviation "D.D." after his name. William Law Ferguson, the missionary of the church in India, who is in this country on his sabbatical year's leave of absence, conveyed the information to the congregation that Mr. Babcock had been awarded the degree of doctor of divinity. The members of the congregation greeted the announcement of the conferring of the honor by standing.

Dr. Ferguson, at the evening service of the church, told of the political and industrial conditions in India, and said that a great movement is in progress there to give the country a separate existence as an independent nation.

THE STRAND

"The Devil" of Mr. George Arliss at The Strand, which is to be shown all this week, starting with tonight, is not the stereotypical devil of the stage and screen. His particular devil is a polished, well-bred gentleman who, in the guise of a "friend" finds in love a mighty weapon with which to destroy the goodness of the human beings who are trying to do what the world calls right. Mr. Arliss, it will be remembered created "The Devil" on the speaking stage and, by the subtlety and polish of his performance won the praise of the critics of the country, and the public. His screen interpretation is no less poignant, and finished, while the production itself, by virtue of its artistry of setting, photography, lighting, direction and acting, reaches a peak of photographic art, and has been acclaimed one of the really great pictures.

In connection with the local presentation, arrangements have been made for the introduction of a real prologue something brand new in local picture circles. Charles Barton will be seen as "Satan" and Miss Mildred Beauregard will appear in "The Dance of Death."

The management has gone to considerable extra expense in presenting this film feature on such an elaborate scale, and it is generally expected that the theatre public of Lowell and vicinity will reflect its appreciation by attending in large numbers at all performances. This is only the first of many new and entertaining novelties to be introduced during the summer schedule.

"All Dotted Up" with Gladys Walton starring, will be equally interesting to young and old. It deals with the tangled romance of Maggie Quick, a snip girl, and Eve Bundy, a millionaire's daughter, and gives the star a great opportunity to blend her artistry with dramatic thrills. A fight for every kiss in the rule. Maggie takes a flier in the love market and wins by an inch. It's mighty interesting to see how she does it.

Besides the above two features there will be the usual comedy and weekly. The special ventilating system installed at The Strand makes the theatre the "cool and comfortable" spot it is. You may be sweltering on the outside, but if you step into the theatre you will find it just to your liking, so far as temperature is concerned. Try it once and be convinced. It's certainly worth the price alone.

H. F. KENTUS THEATRE
Today ushers in the final and forthright week of the current vaudeville season at the B. F. Keith theatre, and it also marks the completion of a full ten years of business at this very popular house. Marking this concluding week of vaudeville will be a septet of acts which should receive very high commendation.

Craig Campbell, one of the very best of the younger American tenors, destined for very high honors in the world of music, for he is now spoken of as quite the best American tenor that the country possesses. He began his musical career in a church choir, and was later selected for leading roles in light operas. He then joined the Society of American Singers, and he has appeared abroad in concert work. His voice is said to be one showing the infallible signs of the very best training, and a purity of tone which is nothing short of remarkable.

"The Midnight Sons" who are also on this bill are Eddie Kane and Jay Herman. They are comedy warblers, who have a real reason for everything that they offer. Really, they are first and foremost funny men, but so much of their fun emanates from singing that they are billed as singers.

Everybody knows the junior if not everybody loves him. That's why Archer and Belford have woven him into a comedy skit called "The New Junior," and it is safe to say that millions of the American public will appreciate the very clever satire on this individual. Bob Cook and Dorothy Outman are a pair of delineators from songland, who are youthful and right up to the minute in their work, and Danse Fantastiques are to be produced by Frederick Duster and Beatrice Square, who are dancers of note. Then there is Beatrice Doane, the American soprano, and as an opener there will be "Five & Kenny, daring roller skaters."

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
"Deception," the great romance

based on actual facts of English history, is the feature attraction at the Merrimack Square theatre for the first three days of the week. Aside from its historic value "Deception" is both spectacular and appealing—spectacular in the splendor of its appointments and pageantry and appealing in the dramatic qualities of its sympathetic story. The scenes are magnificent in every respect and the theme deals with the love of Anne Boleyn for King Henry VIII, England's "royal lover," whose amours all but split Europe. A Bennett comedy, "The Office Cupid," and the International News are other features. There will be no advance in prices for this big bill.

"WAY DOWN EAST"
One hardly realizes in seeing the D. W. Griffith picture, "Way Down East," which comes as a special attraction to the B. F. Keith theatre the week of June 13th, that only a corps of untripped camera men could have made pos-ble the taking of the wonderful scenes of the breaking up of the ice gorge and of the plight of Anna Moore as, on an ice floe, she drifted rapidly to a seemingly inescapable doom. Lillian Gish really was in great danger at the moment when she was rescued from the falls by Richard Barthelmess and if anyone had failed to "function" properly, there might have been a real tragedy to record instead of the minute drama of a broken life, healed by love, as shown in "Way Down East" on the screen. Of course, had the camera been a man failed the entire scene would be a failure for the actors would surely not have tempted fate again by a re-enactment of the scene. It was at White River Junction in Vermont that the scenes on the river were photographed. At first as Miss Gish started down stream on an ice floe, it was possible for the camera men standing on a bridge to get "long shots" and to keep at the task of photographing the coming human figure so pathetic among the mass of floating ice.

RIALTO THEATRE
Marshal Nollan's great production "Bob Hampton of Placer," which is said to be the screen sensation of the present season, opens a three day engagement at the Rialto theatre this afternoon, and it is expected a large audience will be present to witness it. It is said to be the finest and most spectacular of Nollan's productions to date and a reproduction of the original stand against the Sioux Indians in realistic fashion. "Bob Hampton," an outcast from the army, serves gallantly through the campaign and is credited to the good fortune of an army who knew him. On the same program is a comedy and continuation of "The Son of Tarzan," also the Fox news.

BUY THRIFT AND WAR
SAVINGS STAMPS

Henry J. Maguire, secretary of the War Savings society at the Lowell postoffice, yesterday sent a report to the headquarters of the savings division. First Federal Reserve district, in Boston, showing that the 10 members among the clerks and clerks purchased a total of $113.32 worth of Thrift and War Savings stamps during the month of May. The society was organized in April by Miss Marguerite W. Stoddard, one of the field secretaries of the savings division, and its first report showed purchases of $3.30, so that the latest figures indicated what the members intend to do when they really get down to the business of saving systematically. R. S. Kennedy, acting head of the industrial department of the division, has expressed his pleasure at the excellent showing now being made.

Adventures of The Twins

"Hello there!" called Mr. Sprinkle-Blow to Nancy and Nick when he saw them standing in front of the house of the Nutsance Fairies. "I didn't know company had come. How do you do?"

He crossed the road and shook hands cordially with the twins, and then remarked that it was a nice day, or rather that he was going to see to it that it was a nice day. "I've just telephoned to Mr. Sun to help me out," he nodded, and when old Mr. Sun is in a good humor, he'll do anything for me. But there! You haven't told me yet how you got here, or why you came at all, in fact. And being a curious person, I'd like ever so much to know. That's part of my business, asking questions, because if I don't ask questions and find out what people are planning to do, how can I mix up the proper kind of weather for them? But there, again! I see that I'm not giving you a chance to say a word. Why did you come?"

"The Fairy Queen sent us to help you," answered Nancy. "Do you need us?"

But before Mr. Sprinkle-Blow had time to answer, Nick said quickly, "I'm afraid we're making a wrong beginning. Mr. Weatherman, and you won't want us. We—we let out Mr. Flood."

"What?" cried Sprinkle-Blow, so surprised he nearly fell over his own umbrella.

And Nick explained how he had opened the wrong door.

"Gracious alive!" cried the fairyman. "There isn't a moment to be lost. I've promised Mr. Bull-er Beaver that I'd send him good weather. He told me that he hadn't had time to finish his dam last fall, before I sent the cold weather, and he is hurrying to finish it. Now Old Man Flood will unbutton all the little streams and spoil everything."

Water from cloudbursts in the Pueblo section hit La Junta at 3 p. m. yesterday with a 12-foot crest. The water rose at the rate of three feet in 10 minutes, and spread to a three mile width over the lowlands. La Junta is flooded to a depth of three feet and the city is without drinking water or lights.

EPIDEMIC OF HOME RUNS AND HEAVY-HITTING

NEW YORK, June 6.—Baseball enthusiasts continue to discuss the epidemic of home runs and heavy hitting, and despite repeated denials by league officials and manufacturers of baseballs that the spheres used this season are composed of material that would make them lighter, most of the credit for the unprecedented batting orgy is given to the ball.

Few fans, and comparatively few players, attempting to explain the causes of a five ball are actually aware of the materials, contained in the household sphere. The making of a baseball was explained here today by a leading manufacturer of the ball, who said that the core of the ball is made of cork, and is actually a piece of a five ball, which is actually a piece of a five ball, which is actually a piece of a five ball.

The actual manufacture of the ball begins with the formation of a piece of cork about the size of a marble. Rubber hemispheres, measured and weighed to the fraction of a gram, are made to enclose the cork centre and then are vulcanized.

The centre of rubber-encased cork is then wound with Australian wool yarn, the gauge and tension of which is uniform and exact. The wool is wound to the regulation size of the ball, the core of horsehide is stretched and sewed on by hand, the article using an awl and the strongest cotton thread. The horsehide is used only after it has been in a state of preparation for 18 weeks.

The cork centre was introduced in 1910, when experiments showed that a centre entirely of rubber tended to be soft and spongy. The cork centre, however, was found to be a better material, and the new ball immediately resulted in an improved and more interesting standard in hitting and fielding experiments showing that the new ball was truer, when thrown, than the sphere previously in use.

BRITISH AND AMERICAN PRO. GOLFERS MEET

GLENEAGLES, Scotland, June 6.—(By the Associated Press) British and American professional golfers, who are here to participate during the coming week in the professional championship tournament, met today in a team match, preliminary to the competition in the tournament proper. On each team there were 16 men, all of them acknowledged masters of the game, and today's results were expected to show something as to the comparative strength of the American and British who are entered in the professional tournament.

The pairings for today's match were as follows: Hutchins, against Duncan; Hagen against Mitchell; French against Ray; McLeod against J. H. Taylor; Kerrigan against Vardon; Mackenzie against Brady; Reid against Hayter; Allen against McKenna; Hoffer against Josh Taylor and Melhorn against Shercock.

The tournament will begin tomorrow with a qualifying round at medal play over two courses. This qualifying competition will continue on Wednesday and the 18 plus, the lowest medal score for the 54 holes played during the two days will participate in the first and second rounds of the professional tournament. The semi-finals will be played on Friday and the final on Saturday, these events being for 36 holes.

12 VALUABLE RACE HORSES DIE IN FIRE

GREENS FARM, Conn., June 6.—Twelve high bred race horses, valued at $100,000, the property of Edward T. Bedford, New York financier, were burned to death early yesterday, at Bedford estate, Winford, Conn. Among the horses burned was the 2-year-old Plausible. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Mr. Bedford said, when it was discovered about 4:30, it was too late to get the horses out of the blazing stable. A blacksmith shop and a carriage house, adjoining the stable, and some of the track buildings on the farm, also were destroyed.

FLETCHERS DEFEAT BROADWAY A. C.

The following account of a game on the North common yesterday afternoon was relayed by the Sun today. Sporting Editor, Lowell Sun.—In a one-sided game Sunday afternoon on the North common, the Fletchers earned the right to be called the local representative of the "Acre" by defeating the Broadway A. C. by the score of 19 to 4, battling three pitchers all over the common, namely: Seely, Farwell and Targon. When the Broadway saw they were hopelessly beaten, they started to make a comedy out of it by sticking in such men as Tom Ed Smith and a few more of the old timers, and when they did, Captain Fitzgerald of the Fletchers, in justice to the large crowd present, pulled his team from the field. The Fletcher team was formerly known as the Jolly Campers. The crowd, however, was so large that they were not able to get in. They were hopelessly outclassed from the start as they could do absolutely nothing with the shots of Pitcher Dick Morrison. Now the Fletchers have one of the best pitchers around in the person of Thomas H. (Boxer) Allen of the old Emeralds of which there was none better in his day and he hasn't forgotten how to bring home the bacon yet. The Fletchers are made up of boys who were born and brought up and lived in the Acre all their lives and for that reason they wish to be hailed as the real representatives of the Acre. We play the strong Bennett A. A. of Somerville on the South common one week from Saturday when we will appear in our new uniforms. Our team consists of such stars as Phil Farrell who can catch a game of baseball as good as any man in town; Dick Morrison and Jimmy Flanagan who pitched for the U.S.S. George Washington champions of the transport fleet; Dan Fitz first base, who formerly played with the strong U.S.S. Vermont; Larry McGrath who tried out with Springfield and others. Now we hope this isn't too long, and I hope you will print this so the people of Lowell and the Acre will know who the representatives of the Acre are. Yours very truly,

THOMAS H. (BOXER) ALLEN, Mgr.

WALKED FROM LAWRENCE TO TEST THE BENEFITS RECEIVED FROM CINOT, SAYS A LOWELL CITIZEN

Mr. Luigi Pochialis, of 234 Aiken Street, Lowell, Surely Used Novel Means to Test the Effects and Benefits Received From CINOT in Rheumatism

We have had some remarkable results in rheumatism with the use of CINOT, and among them is Mr. Pochialis, who says:

"I have suffered for years with rheumatism and had pains in my joints and swollen limbs, and every change of weather affected me."

"I could not walk for twenty minutes without suffering terrible pain and had given up hopes of getting any benefit when one day I read of CINOT, the wonder medicine, and decided to try it and am glad I did, as I felt its soothing influence at once."

"After the third week I felt so well that I decided I would try a walk from Lawrence, and would you believe it, I made the whole distance without a pain or an ache."

CINOT is being demonstrated in Lowell by an expert at Dows Drug Store, Merrimack Square, and is for sale by all good druggists everywhere.—Adv.

JURY VISITS MURDER SCENE

Judge and Jurors Go To South Braintree to View Place of Double Killing

Sacco and Vanzetti, Accused of Crime, Waive Right to Be Present

DEDHAM, June 6.—The scene of the killing at South Braintree a year ago of Frederick A. Parmenter, paymaster of a shoe factory, and Alessandro Bernardelli, his guard, was visited today by the judge and the jury before whom Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, are to be tried for the double murder and payroll robbery.

The prisoners waived their right to be present. The trip by motor was over the route alleged to have been followed by the defendants.

Before the start Assistant District Attorney Harold P. Williams described to the jurors the ground they would cover. He said the trip would take them not only to the scene of the murder, but also over the route of the alleged flight of the bandits, through Randolph, Milton and Brockton to West Bridgewater.

Attention was directed to a chart of the scene on Pearl street, South Braintree, where the murders occurred on the afternoon of April 15, 1920.

The Rice & Hutchins shoe factory in front of which the paymaster and guard were shot down, and the Slater & Morrill factory and office building, to which they fled, and the street between them, were shown together with several adjacent streets.

Attorneys expected that the greater part of the day would be consumed in making the trip and it was considered doubtful that opening arguments could be started before tomorrow.

Against Separate Trials
A brief court session preceded the departure of the jurors. Judge Webster Thayer announced the selection of Walter H. Bishop of Quincy, a stockbroker, as foreman, and overruled a motion by the defense for separate trials for Sacco and Vanzetti. Holding open a request by defense counsel for a bill of particulars, Judge Thayer said that if the time came when it was necessary for the defense to have advance information, he would see that it was obtained. Counsel saved exceptions to both rulings. No action was taken by the court on a general demurrer to the indictment which had been filed by the defense.

The way was opened for the defense to examine the weapons and bullets which the prosecution will allege were used in shooting the paymaster and his guard, when the court gave the exhibits into the custody of Sheriff Samuel H. Capen.

PULLMAN EMPLOYEES TO VOTE ON STRIKE

WILMINGTON, Del., June 6.—An immediate vote on a nation-wide strike called by the national organization of Pullman employees received here last night, by the local federation of Pullman workers. The strike will be effective June 10 if a two-thirds majority of the employees vote in favor.

Risk Lives to Get News

leased wire and a Western Union Telegraph Co., almost simultaneously. A few minutes after the Associated Press wire lost Pueblo, the last Western Union man to brave the rush of the waters wired to the Denver office:

"I am going to beat it; the water is around my feet." That was Friday night.

Went in Airplane
After that it was hours before communication between Pueblo and the rest of the country was restored, over one Western Union wire. The first outside newspapermen to reach the flooded city were two Denver correspondents. One of them was an Associated Press staff man and the other a staff correspondent of the Denver Times. They went together early Saturday morning in an airplane from this city.

Later two more Associated Press correspondents and an Associated Press operator went to Colorado Springs from Denver by train and from Colorado Springs to Pueblo by automobile. On foot, they could not get within miles of the business section of the city and automobiles that managed to get around washouts on the roads had to stop at the city limits. Colorado Springs newspaper men also succeeded in reaching Pueblo late Saturday.

News of the conditions in Pueblo was obtained only under the greatest of difficulties. Local newspapers, the police, the fire department, the military and the Red Cross were the first sources of information as the high water and strict vigilance of military guards made it impossible to get first-hand information and the necessary military passes had been obtained and provisions made for getting around through the mud, water and fire that overwhelmed the city. Correspondents had to work in relays to keep in contact with the lone wire—and an uncertain wire at that—which connected Pueblo with Denver, the distributing center for news which dribbled out from the city.

From the tops of buildings newspapermen in Pueblo witnessed much of the disaster. They also used boats. The military wigwagged information when distance made it impossible to hear the human voice. Fire whistles served as signals for more urgent matters. Church bells also played their part in the transmission of emergency information. Half-nude and interlopers swarmed, many of them negroes, served as couriers.

FIVE MORE DEATHS IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, June 6.—Early yesterday a police patrol was ambushed at Maghreefield, County Londonderry. A sergeant was shot dead and a constable seriously wounded.

Another patrol, engaged in tracing down suspicious persons at Abbeyfeale, Limerick, was fired upon from a house that had been commandeered. A constable was killed and five constables were wounded.

Saturday evening John Brady, the son of a solicitor, who was sitting with a companion on the sea wall in Dublin, was shot and killed by men riding bicycles. Brady's companion, who was wounded, died later.

Saturday night auxiliaries are reported to have fired into a crowd in Dublin, killing a young member of parliament and wounding another man and a woman.

ANOTHER FIGHT OVER STILLMAN CASE

NEW YORK, June 6.—Another fight over immediate continuation of hearings in the Stillman divorce case was forecast today.

John P. Brennan, counsel for Mrs. Ann U. Stillman, the defendant, announced at White Plains that he probably would ask Judge Gibson at the hearing in Poughkeepsie tomorrow to grant a further delay.

Cornelius J. Sullivan, of counsel for James A. Stillman, when informed of Mr. Brennan's statement, said the banker's attorneys would fight any attempt to halt the progress of the case.

Brennan, who declined to state his reason for asking for the delay also declined to comment on published reports that Mrs. Stillman intended filing a supplementary answer, naming several additional women in connection with her counter-charge against Mr. Stillman.

MAINE GOVERNOR'S FIRE PROCLAMATION

AUGUSTA, June 6.—Governor Baxter issued a proclamation today, declaring that the forest fire situation in Maine is an emergency that should be brought to the attention of every citizen.

The situation in Maine, both within and without the forestry district, is critical," the proclamation read. "I urge all persons, and particularly campers, fishermen and woodsmen, to use the utmost precaution. Every individual going into the woods should do all in his power to prevent the spreading of fires, should co-operate freely with the proper authorities in extinguishing fires and should aid in bringing to justice those guilty of violating the forestry fire law."

Decides in Favor of Western Union

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Contentions of the Western Union Telegraph Co., that it cannot be held liable for damages caused through errors in transmitting messages while its lines were under government control were upheld today by the supreme court. A decision of South Carolina courts awarding damages to S. B. Poston, a cotton dealer, was reversed.

Bolsheviki Shoot 100 Political Prisoners

TOKIO, June 5.—(By the Associated Press).—The Hochi Shimbun's Harbin correspondent says today that the Bolsheviki, who are preparing to evacuate Khabarovsk, capital of the maritime province of Siberia, shot 100 political offenders in the jail there.

The Japanese-owned Herald of Asia, which is published in Tokio, fears that the reported delay in Japanese evacuation of Siberia means that the cabinet has been victimized by the militarists. The newspaper suggests that the recent coup d'etat in Vladivostok possibly will result in the militarists scheming to block complete evacuation.

More Forest Fires in Maine

BANGOR, Me., June 6.—More forest fires are reported in this section. The most extensive blaze is around Gassabans lake, in township 41. The Orono Pulp & Paper Co., on whose land this fire is, has sent in 200 men in auto trucks. The fire on Nixons, which is on land owned by Morrison & Cassidy of this city, was believed to be under control but broke out with renewed violence Sunday. Smaller fires are reported between township 33 and Greenfield, on township 32 east of Bradley and at Wade Brook. The worst situation today is that at Gassabans and it is believed the fire fighters will soon have the other fires under control.

GRADUATION EXERCISES RESULTS IN INDIVIDUAL AT TEXTILE SCHOOL

Commencement exercises of the class of 1921 at Lowell Textile school will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Southwick hall. The speaker of the occasion will be Professor Dallas Lora Sharp, head of the English department of Boston University. A noted writer and orator, Professor Sharp is one of the Atlantic Monthly's regular contributors. The program will include the announcement of the scholarship award and the award of the medal offered by the national association of cotton manufacturers to the member of the class who has maintained the highest standing throughout his undergraduate course.

Charles H. Eames, president of the institution, has mailed to each student a large number of invitations to the exercises, but announces that those who do not receive such invitations will be nevertheless welcomed by the faculty and student body as their guests for the afternoon. A large attendance is expected as all residents of this city are invited to the announcement of President Eames.

TO SPEED ALONG THE INITIATIVE PETITIONS

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce held their final regular meeting of the present session this noon in the chamber rooms in Merrimack square and instructed Secretary-Manager George P. Wells to present the chamber's street paving initiative petitions to the municipal authorities as soon as possible.

Up to the time of the meeting a total of 215 petitions had been turned in with 165 names. There are still 147 petitions out. So far the chamber has elicited up 3031 signatures as correct, or 31 above the required number. However, an effort will be made to get as many more as possible.

The chamber's office forces will endeavor to have the other petitions turned in at once and it is probable that the matter will be brought to the attention of the municipal authorities the latter part of this week.

The directors will not meet again in regular session until September unless business of exceptional importance arises in the meantime.

WESTFORD HERO BURIED

Funeral of Private Aldat J. Langley Took Place This Morning

Out of respect for the late Priv. Aldat J. Langley of Granitville, the first Westford world war boy to lose his life on the battlefield, whose funeral took place this morning, the plants of the Abbot Worsted Co. and the G. E. Sargent Co., both of Granitville, closed for the day today.

The remains of the young hero arrived at Westford early yesterday morning and were taken to the headquarters of the Western post of the American legion, where they lay in state until this morning when the funeral took place. The casket was placed on one of the caissons of Battery B of this city and was taken to Granitville, where services were held.

Acting as a bodyguard to the body was a large delegation from the American legion, which was headed by the Abbot Worsted Co. band, and followed by a large delegation from Court Granitville, A. F. of A. The long cortege wound its way to St. Catherine's church in Granitville, where at 1 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Henney, who was assisted by Rev. Fr. Dupont and Rev. Fr. Linehan as deacon and sub-deacon respectively. The choir under the direction of Miss Mary Hanley rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory Leysbach's "Pie Jesu" was sung by Miss Rebecca Leach and as the body was being borne from the church the choir rendered "De Profundis."

Burial took place in the family lot in St. Catherine's cemetery. Granitville, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Henney, assisted by Fr. Linehan. "Taps" was sounded at the grave and three volleys were fired by the following firing squad in command of Harry Whiting: George Wilson, James Spinner, J. Bechard, Clarence and Arthur Hildreth, M. Stewart, C. Hill and W. Shaper. The funeral services were conducted by Robert McCarthy, while the legion ritual was carried out by Commander Frank Johnson of Westford post. The bearers were Frank Charlton, Walter Heber, John Healey and Walter Blanchette, representing the army and Edward Hanley, Alfred Hughes, James McNeil and Edward Healey, representing the navy. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker John A. Healey of Granitville.

PRAY TO END DROUGHT

MEXICO CITY, June 6.—The image of the Virgin de Los Remedios was removed Saturday night from the small village of Los Remedios, near this city, to the cathedral here, where it will be exposed for several days while devotions are held to end the drought which has reached serious proportions. Thousands of persons followed the image to the cathedral, where a solemn ceremony was held presided over by the archbishop of Mexico. This is the first time that the image has been removed in many years.

In years past when drought or epidemic has threatened Mexico City the statue of the Virgin de Los Remedios has been taken to the head of a procession to Mexico City, there to be received by the archbishop and the clergy and members of the city council.

The statue usually stands in the small chapel of the church of Our Lady of Remedios in the village of Villa Juarez, a short distance from Mexico City. The image is of wood and believed to have been carved with a dull pen knife many years ago by an Indian craftsman. In the arms of the virgin is the infant Jesus.

ALLEGED ABDONER ARRESTED

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., June 6.—Shubell K. Silver, treasurer of the First Reformed church, who has been sought for two weeks in connection with the embezzlement of $5000 of the church funds, was arrested yesterday at North Andover, Vt. A young woman from North Andover, who disappeared at the same time that Silver left New Brunswick, was reported to have been with him when he was taken into custody. Silver has a wife and two children in New Brunswick.

Campaign Against Smokers

places where combustible material is present.

"We have had a number of serious fires for months in Lowell and statistics show that careless smokers are responsible for a great portion of the fire losses. Any other person except improperly used electricity and electric appliances."

"The proper time to fight a fire is before it occurs and I am asking employers of this city to enforce their own rules and to see that their employees are properly instructed. Fire is a community proposition and not a personal one although there are not many people who realize this fact."

"The way to reduce the number of fires is to reduce the number of matches and smoking materials to make sure that neither lit matches nor lit cigars are ever discarded or left in places where they can be carelessly thrown away. If you are outdoors, when you are in a glass metal or china ash tray."

"Unfortunately," continued the chief, "there is considerable loss of life by burning because of reckless employees in factories and other places. We must see that each a smoker when the foreman is not looking. If a smoker is threatened, the smoker is likely to feel rid of his cigarette and throw it away as he thinks of it. I have thought as to where it will land."

"There have been numerous cases where fires have started in this way. In one New York city light factory an operative threw a lit cigarette out of a window and it landed on the roof and as a result of his thoughtlessness it started a fire that cost the lives of five girls and their lives in the fire and panic that resulted."

WASHINGTON, June 6.—On motion of Solicitor General Frierson, the supreme court today dismissed the government's appeal from lower court decrees that the American Can Co., did not constitute a monopoly under the Sherman law.

Foreign Exchange Feverishly Unsettled

NEW YORK, June 6.—Foreign exchange was feverishly unsettled today, all European remittances showing increased pressure on pessimistic advices from abroad. During the early selling of sterling, demand bills were quoted at $3.79 1/2, a loss of almost five cents over the week-end and fully 20 cents below the recent high quotation. Paris bills reacted 17 points; Belgian and Dutch 20; Italian 34. German, Danish, Norwegian and Swedish remittances also were heavy.

Book Thief Must Leave Country

NEW YORK, June 6.—Charged with stealing books from the New York public library and the shelves of Columbia and Harvard universities, James Bannie, a student, will be permitted to return to his native Russia, instead of serving a penitentiary sentence of six months to three years. His sister, who lives in Lynn, Mass., interceded for him, when he was arraigned today, in special sessions, as a second offender and promised to pay his passage overseas. The court consented to this arrangement, but ruled that Bannie must remain in the Tombs until he sails.

PRES. HARDING PRAISES NEGRO SOLDIERS

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY, Pa., June 6.—President and Mrs. Harding, motoring from Valley Forge, Pa., to Washington, stopped at Lincoln university today and were greeted by the Rev. John M. Randall, president of the university and 300 negro students.

The president was shown the granite arch erected in memory of negro soldiers who died in the world war, and in a brief speech said the colored soldiers earned this honor by their efforts. He also spoke of the great benefits of education in furthering the welfare of the negroes, and contrasted the fine scene presented at the university with those enacted in race disturbances.

The president in his address depicted the recent race riot at Tulsa, Okla., and all similar outbreaks of race feeling. "God grant," he said in referring to the riot, "that we may never have another spectacle like it."

MORE LAURELS FOR SACRED HEART CLUB

Last evening at the C.Y.M.L. quarters the Sacred Heart club was awarded first honors for the club earning the most points in the May 30th track meet held on the South common under the auspices of the C.Y.M.L.

The club prize consisted of a beautiful large loving cup mounted on a black walnut base.

Each member of the S.H.C. track team also came in on the individual prizes which were quite appropriate.

The Sacred Hearts piled up a total of 22 points, which easily gave them the club prize. Every man on the team finished within the first three places in all the events except three in which the club had no entrance.

The splendid showing made by the club is due in no small part to the very efficient handling of the team by Geo. (Red) O'Hare, who is in charge of the club activities for the club. Most of the men received their training at some time or other, from "Mike" Haggerty of the Lowell high school whose ability as a trainer along these lines is unquestioned.

One of the important events of the meet, the relay race, was won handsomely by the Sacred Hearts, with Johnny "Lynn" (Tom) McManey, (Paddy) Mulroney and (Red) O'Hare, running.

The track team looks forward to another opportunity of displaying their prowess in the near future.

The members of the Sacred Heart club, who compete as Captains, are: O'Hare, Reddy, Mulroney, Joe, Mahoney, Joseph, Brown, W. John, Flynn, James, Crowe, Henry, Forrest, Peter, Sheridan.
